Demo Voters Here Yawning At Primaries

Despite ideal Spring weather, Democrat voters were showing only "so-what" interest today as the party's primary election moved through its first six hours.

Only about 150 voters had cast ballots up to noontime in the city's 14 voting precincts. Reports citywide were that it was one of the lightest primary showings by either party in the memory of veteran political observers.

Ten precincts shortly after noon reported a total of 120 votes cast. Four other voting places could not be contacted by phone. They were: 1-B, 1-C, 4-B and 4-C.

Polling places will remain open until 6:30 p. m. Final or partial results can be learned by phoning The Herald between 9 and 10 p. m. Election results will also be announced to the audience in Circleville High School auditorium to night immediately after the annual high school music festival, which will end about 9:30 p. m.

MOST OF the lagging interest in the Democratic ranks—while the Republicans "sat out" the primary without a contest—appeared to be centered on the third ward. In that ward, Walden E. Reichelderfer and William N. Thomas are seeking the nomination for ward councilman, a post now held by George Crites.

Crites has suggested a city income tax as the only way to avoid running the municipality hopelessly into "the red", but he has stressed it is only a suggestion which he is willing to set aside if "somebody has a better idea". Reichelderfer said he is opposed to such a levy.

Thomas did not comment on the tax plan.

At noontime, 15 votes had been cast in precinct 3-A. In 3-B, 18 votes had been marked.

Reflecting the very light volume of voting, only two votes were cast in 4-D by the noon hour.

The other two contests are for mayor and city treasurer. Councilman John Robinson and Ray W. Harris are seeking the nomination for mayor.

In the city treasurer race, incumbent Everett P. (Dutch) Stocklen is opposed by Loring E. (Jaggy) Davis and Melvin A. (Pat) Yates.

Music And Voting Results At CHS

Here is an easy way you can hear Circleville High School's singers and musicians—and the results of the three Democratic races in today's primary election—without moving out of your seat this evening!

The annual CHS Music Festival will be held in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m., and the program will last until about 9:30 p. m. Admission will be free, and the program includes a varied selection of pieces for the big choir, orchestra, and junior and senior bands.

A number of solos and ensembles are also listed.

The musical event, which always draws an audience from all over Pickaway County, will be under the direction of Truman Eberly.

IMMEDIATELY after the program, results of the three Democratic election contests will be through a special arrangement with The Circleville Herald.

Others who are unable to attend the music festival can obtain the latest election information if they call The Herald offices between 9 and 10 p. m. tonight

School State Aid Percentage Drops

City Schools Superintendent Says More During 1930's Than Now

Ohio is paying less of a percentage of state income for aid to schools now than during the depression, according to superintendent of Circleville schools George Hartman.

"About the only way we can get funds locally is to tax real estate," Hartman said. "And real estate has been taxed enough in some localities."

"We have to depend on revenue from the state. But most of the state income has been earmarked for other places, not for schools."

Hartman was commenting on the recent announcement by R.M. Eymann, state director of education, that the percentage of state subsidies has dropped from 48, in 1936, to last year's figure of 34.

GEORGE McDOWELL, Pickaway County superintendent of schools, said that the idea of the state aid program was eventually to increase local funds and thus cut down on state subsidies.

"It is much better to derive as much in local funds as possible than have to rely on the state," McDowell said. "But, there is the problem of increasing costs."

"Back in the 1930's, you could hire a good teacher for approximately half of today's wages. And other schools costs, such as heating, have all increased a great deal over the years."

Eymann agreed that "like everything else, school costs have risen; but the record shows that the increased costs have been a voted cost. In other words, this means passage of local school levies. The local increase has been born almost entirely by voted taxation. "While the richer counties have less to worry about," Eymann explained, "it is still true that the poorer districts of the state can't vote enough money for adequate support of public schools. Total current operating expenses amounted to $102,478,490 in 1936-37. In 1953-54, current operating expenses had increased to $337,700,287."

EYMAN FURTHER noted that the percentage of state subsidies for operating expenses shows a consistent decline since 1936. "Percentage-wise," he said, "that was the highest year. By 1948 it dropped to 39 per cent; in 1950 to 37 per cent; in 1951 it was 38 per cent; and in 1952 it dropped to 35 per cent."

"Total state subsidies for 1953-54 amounted to $116,079,278. This includes funds for special and vocational education but does not include money for school bus purchases, school plant rehabilitation or new construction.

Lutherans Plan Jubilee Dinner

The Annual Diamond Jubilee Dinner, held by Trinity Lutheran church to honor members who have passed their 75th birthday, will be in the parish hall of the church next Thursday evening at 6:30. Special entertainment is planned for the occasion.

Main speaker for the evening will be the Rev. T. Rene Meyer, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, of Bellevue, O.

Group singing will be led by Karl Hermann, and special music will be presented by a male quartette, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Karl Hermann.

Carl C. Leist will be toastmaster for the evening. The dinner is in charge of James Mowery Sr. and his committee. Tickets may be obtained at the church office or at the door Thursday evening. Members and friends of the congregation are all invited.

New York Ends Lengthy Manhunt

CANTON, N. Y. (AP)—A manhunt through northern New York has ended where it began, in St. Lawrence County Jail, from which four men fled Wednesday.

Freshly shaven and clothed, Patrick Brooks, 26, of Gabriels, walked quietly into the main jail office at 9:06 last night. A friend drove him from the swampy woodland where he had been hunted since Friday.

Leon Caskinette, 24, was taken after a gun battle Friday. Frank Talarico, 44, Utica, and Ralph La Shomb, 29, were shot when troopers found them yesterday morning. Talarico was killed.

Voting In Ohio Said 'Very Light'

COLUMBUS (AP)—"Very light" voting in Ohio's primary election was the report from most areas in the state at noon today.

Dayton reported "extremely" light balloting there on the only issue, a $20 million school bond proposal. Voting was running less than three per cent of registration.

About the same reports came from other areas despite the generally fine weather.

Heated Battle On Farm Price Props Open

High Support Forces Hold High Hopes Of Ending Flexible Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposing House forces squared off today in a new battle over the old issue of farm price supports.

The decision, however it goes, is certain to echo noisily in next year's political campaigning.

Scheduled for two days of debate was a bill to junk the administration's fledgling flexible support program and restore high rigid price props on basic commodities to the levels first fixed in World War II to spur production.

Both sides conceded the vote could go either way when the showdown comes tomorrow.

Democratic leaders predicted that if they capture 20 or more Republican votes they can pass the high support bill. Republicans were equally hopeful of holding city Democrats.

LAST YEAR, in a Republican-controlled House, 45 Democrats teamed up with the GOP majority to pass the present flexible law supporting basic farm crops at levels between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity. Voting with the Democrats were 23 Republicans.

Rep. Harrison (R-Neb.) said the GOP expects to lose only about 18 votes this time, but might also lose some of last year's Democratic support.

Regardless of what the House does, no early change in the law is in prospect.

The Senate Agriculture Committee has indicated it will not even consider a price support bill before next year. And in the event Congress should pass such legislation, it would almost certainly be vetoed by President Eisenhower.

The new farm bill would restore price supports at 90 per cent of parity for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts. Under the present administration program, these crops can be supported at 82½ to 90 per cent of parity this year.

The support range will drop to 75 to 90 per cent next year and thereafter.

For dairy products, the measure proposed price supports at 80 to 90 per cent of parity in place of 75 to 90 per cent under present law.

Parity is a legal standard intended to assure farmers a fair return for their products in relation to the cost of things they buy.

Conservancy District Tax Refund Slated

COLUMBUS (AP)—Judge James E. Kinnison of Jackson County, sitting by assignment, ruled today that Franklin County taxpayers should be refunded about $23,647 collected two years ago by special assessment for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District.

Judge Kinnison's decision affected only Franklin County. He had heard the case last March. The Pennsylvania Railroad had protested the special assessment in one suit. In another the Sharon Realty Co. of Columbus had moved for impounding of the money collected.

Judge Kinnison ruled the county will have to bear the expense of the refund. County Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher had previously said plans have been made to refund the money if the judge so ordered.

Some of the 17 counties in the district had not collected the special assessment. A suit is still pending on an action in which county treasurers were enjoined from collecting or dispensing assessments.

There was no immediate indication that attorneys for the district would appeal the decision.

Ike Explains Foreign Aid Plan To Congress Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred for an hour and 40 minutes today with 25 congressional leaders of both parties on his $3½ billion foreign aid bill.

And there is increasing talk on Capitol Hill that instead of being a direct handout, the program actually may turn out to be more of a loan setup.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said later: "There is no question but that it will get through, but in what form, I don't know."

George, Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, and House Speaker Rayburn of Texas headed the 11 Democrats at the White House conference. The Republican contingent included Vice President Nixon, Senate Leader Knowland of California and House Leader Martin of Massachusetts.

THE CHAIRMEN of the Foreign Relations, Appropriations and other committees involved also attended.

Secretary of State Dulles and Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen were among administration officials joining in the conference.

Rayburn said that Dulles and the other officials gave a worldwide review of economic and military conditions. "I thought they handled themselves very well," Rayburn said. Knowland said Dulles' briefing centered on developments in the Far Pacific area. "He gave no details,"

Martin said the administration officials gave a "thorough, careful explanation" of their reasons for favoring a continuation of foreign aid. The pending bill would earmark about two-thirds of the $3½ billion for Asiatic countries.

There has been talk among some legislators of substituting long-term loans for much of the proposed direct economic aid. One of those pushing this idea is Sen. Potter (R-Mich.).

Potter, who was invited to the White House meeting, said in advance of the session that he had already discussed the long-term idea with presidential adviser Joseph M. Dodge.

Potter opposes continuing direct dollar aid. He said he had suggested loans on which the interest payments might be waived for as long as five years.

"I AM SURE" this proposal is being given serious consideration by the administration," he said. "Under such a plan I think we could make contracts with recipient countries which would be mutually beneficial."

"If the plan were adopted, I would favor giving the administration latitude to extend direct aid where loans couldn't be arranged. But I am sure that in most cases it would be possible to get contracts."

Eisenhower said in an April 20 message to Congress that his new program for the fiscal year starting July 1 would emphasize loans rather than grants. But he gave no explanation of this statement.

The President asked for $1.7 billion in military aid funds. He proposed $712½ million in economic assistance, plus $1 billion for "defense support" payments to other countries.

At any rate, the municipal lawmakers plan to hold their regular meeting at 8 p. m. in city hall tonight, scoring a chance to delay or call off the session because of the Democratic primary.

While the votes that will form the Democratic slate in November are being tallied across the street in the Pickaway County Board of Elections office, council will renew its study of numerous major questions. Many, in fact, predicted there will be more interest in council's deliberations than in the three Democratic primary contests.

This feeling is based on the fact that the lawmakers already have potent issues dragged out in public for periodic hassle.

DWELLERS in the city's new North Annex are restless about street and sewer conditions. And

AWAITING further action from previous meetings are measures that would:

1. Give a $25-a-month "across the board" pay boost to regular policemen and sergeants.

2. Adjust the salary of Police Chief Elmer Merriman. (This ordinance was set aside "for the time being" several meetings ago.)

3. Prohibit parking on the east side of N. Scioto St. between Pinkney and High streets.

4. Grant a $25-a-month raise to the clerk-cashier of the city department of water and sewage.

THE change would only be to change a man already working from an off-and-on status to regular employment.

U.S. Governors To Get Details On Road Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's governors were to hear today what the administration plans to do about its highway program.

Highways came up for discussion at a closed-door session on this second day of a meeting called by President Eisenhower.

Forty-five governors were on hand yesterday for a briefing on foreign and defense policy. Afterward there was some grumbling about what they heard.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said: "We didn't learn anything we didn't know before." Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said he heard nothing that he thought ought to be kept secret, adding that "a current, careful reader of the newspapers would be as well informed."

At a dinner last night, Eisenhower told the governors in a brief informal talk that the meeting serves to "bring us back closer to the people of your states."

Then speaking in general about the American form of government, Eisenhower spoke out against officials, state or federal, "sitting in an ivory tower," oblivious of criticism. He said he welcomes any honest differences of opinion the governors may have with him, even violent differences.

Dulles Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said today Secretary of State Dulles has indicated he doubts Red China's Premier Chou En-lai will follow through on his offer to discuss Far Eastern tensions.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's nationalist army has been joined by hard-hitting troops of the Cao Dai religious sect in a final offensive against the Binh Xuyen rebels.

The black-clad Cao Dai forces, commanded by Gen. Trinh Minh The, once were allied with the Binh Xuyen society and the Hoa Hao sect in a united front demanding Diem's resignation.

But Gen. The switched sides three months ago. He withdrew from the alliance when the Binh Xuyen leader, Gen. Le Van Vien, rejected demands that the anti-government campaign avoid armed struggle.

Now Gen. The has thrown four battalions of his troops, perhaps 2,400 men, to Diem's support and is helping in the mop-up of Vien's battered force of 2,000 men on Saigon's outskirts.

Gen. The and his aides, all anti-Communists and anti-Colonialists, are also cooperating in Diem's consolidation of his advantage on the political front over absentee Chief of State Bao Dai.

THE PREMIER formally convoked a "states general," an assembly of political party representatives and municipal and provincial officials, to pass judgment on the National Revolutionary Committee's weekend recommendation to depose Bao Dai. The assembly was called to meet in Saigon tomorrow.

In a nationwide broadcast, Diem said the national army also would have voice in the final decision on the committee's recommendations. Both the states general and the army were expected to approve the ousting of the playboy ex-emperor.

In her new duties as head of the county infirmary, Mrs. Ott will receive $200 a month. Under the previous arrangement, her pay was $120 while the superintendent was paid $142 a month.

As a special service to readers of this column who don't have an Encyclopedia, here are a few Snake Facts: Snakes are cold-blooded reptiles who spend their time slithering pretty girls and biting uranium prospectors. Snakes can be easily hypnotized by playing them flute music (preferably something suitable like two choruses of "Fangs for the Memories"). Snakes have no eyelids and it's impossible for them to wink (considering the great number of snakes around I guess they've worked out some other way to get acquainted). Snakes lay eggs (if frying one use a long thin pan). Snakes are too stupid to read, write or doodle. And questions?

Ike's Foreign Trade Bill Seen Near OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Byrd (R-Va.) said today most of the Senate opposition to the liberalized foreign trade bill appeared to have disappeared.

Byrd, floor manager for the bill, said in advance of a second day of floor debate there is a possibility of an agreement to limit debate starting tomorrow and that the bill might pass without change.

"That would be three days, and not so long ago we were afraid it might take 30 days," he said.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said he was working on a time limitation agreement. Such an agreement requires unanimous consent. Its fate appeared to be largely up to Sen. Malone (R-Nev.), bitter foe of the reciprocal trade program.

Malone conceded he believes there will be only a few votes against the measure on passage.

A rewriting job done on the trade bill by the Finance Committee, which Byrd heads, appeared to have quieted much of the opposition.

The committee preserved the key features of the bill requested by President Eisenhower and passed by the House. These extend the reciprocal trade program three years and give the chief executive additional powers to cut tariffs during that period by 15 per cent.

Regardless of what the House does, no early change in the law is in prospect.

The Senate Agriculture Committee has indicated it will not even consider a price support bill before next year. And in the event Congress should pass such legislation, it would almost certainly be vetoed by President Eisenhower.

The new farm bill would restore price supports at 90 per cent of parity for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts. Under the present administration program, these crops can be supported at 82½ to 90 per cent of parity this year.

The support range will drop to 75 to 90 per cent next year and thereafter.

For dairy products, the measure proposed price supports at 80 to 90 per cent of parity in place of 75 to 90 per cent under present law.

Parity is a legal standard intended to assure farmers a fair return for their products in relation to the cost of things they buy.

Conservancy District Tax Refund Slated

COLUMBUS (AP) — Judge James E. Kinnison of Jackson County, sitting by assignment, ruled today that Franklin County taxpayers should be refunded about $23,647 collected two years ago by special assessment for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District.

Judge Kinnison's decision affected only Franklin County. He had heard the case last March. The Pennsylvania Railroad had protested the special assessment in one suit. In another the Sharon Realty Co. of Columbus had moved for impounding of the money collected.

Judge Kinnison ruled the county will have to bear the expense of the refund. County Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher had previously said plans have been made to refund the money if the judge so ordered.

Some of the 17 counties in the district had not collected the special assessment. A suit is still pending on an action in which county treasurers were enjoined from collecting or dispensing assessments.

There was no immediate indication that attorneys for the district would appeal the decision.

Ike Explains Foreign Aid Plan To Congress Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower conferred for an hour and 40 minutes today with 25 congressional leaders of both parties on his $3½ billion foreign aid bill.

And there is increasing talk on Capitol Hill that instead of being a direct handout, the program actually may turn out to be more of a loan setup.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said later: "There is no question but that it will get through, but in what form, I don't know."

George, Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, and House Speaker Rayburn of Texas headed the 11 Democrats at the White House conference. The Republican contingent included Vice President Nixon, Senate Leader Knowland of California and House Leader Martin of Massachusetts.

THE CHAIRMEN of the Foreign Relations, Appropriations and other committees involved also attended.

Secretary of State Dulles and Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen were among administration officials joining in the conference.

Rayburn said that Dulles and the other officials gave a worldwide review of economic and military conditions.

"I thought they handled themselves very well," Rayburn said. Knowland said Dulles' briefing centered on developments in the Far Pacific area. He gave no details.

Martin said the administration officials gave a "thorough, careful explanation" of their reasons for favoring a continuation of foreign aid. The pending bill would earmark about two-thirds of the $3½ billion for Asiatic countries.

There has been talk among some legislators of substituting long-term loans for much of the proposed direct economic aid. One of those pushing this idea is Sen. Potter (R-Mich.).

Potter, who was invited to the White House meeting, said in advance of the session that he had already discussed the long-term idea with presidential adviser Joseph M. Dodge.

Potter opposes continuing direct dollar aid. He said he had suggested loans on which the interest payments might be waived for as long as five years.

"I AM SURE" this proposal is being given serious consideration by the administration," he said. "Under such a plan I think we could make contracts with recipient countries which would be mutually beneficial."

"If the plan were adopted, I would favor giving the administration latitude to extend direct aid where loans couldn't be arranged. But I am sure that in most cases it would be possible to get contracts."

Eisenhower said in an April 20 message to Congress that his new program for the fiscal year starting July 1 would emphasize loans rather than grants. But he gave no explanation of this statement.

The President asked for $1.7 billion in military aid funds. He proposed $712½ million in economic assistance, plus $1 billion for "defense support" payments to other countries.

pay raise requests in many parts of the municipal picture have put a proposed city income tax in sharp focus.

Councilman George Crites declares the levy is the "only way out" of the city's financial problems.

Crites may have more to say on the subject at Tuesday night's meeting if early returns in the primary give him a decisive lead over two opponents, Walden E. Reichelderfer and William N. Thomas. So far, other members of council have treated Crites' plan like a nervous atom bomb, especially in this municipal election year.

Among new requests to be placed before council Tuesday night will be one for another regular employee of the city water department.

The change would only be to change a man already working from an off-and-on status to regular employment.

AWAITING further action from previous meetings are measures that would:

1. Give a $25-a-month "across the board" pay boost to regular policemen and sergeants.

2. Adjust the salary of Police Chief Elmer Merriman. (This ordinance was set aside "for the time being" several meetings ago.)

3. Prohibit parking on the east side of N. Scioto St between Pinkney and High streets.

4. Grant a $25-a-month raise to the clerk-cashier of the city department of water and sewage.

U.S. Governors To Get Details On Road Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's governors were to hear today what the administration plans to do about its highway program.

Highways came up for discussion at a closed-door session on this second day of a meeting called by President Eisenhower.

Forty-five governors were on hand yesterday for a briefing on foreign and defense policy. Afterward there was some grumbling about what they heard.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said, "We didn't learn anything we didn't know before."

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said he heard nothing that he thought ought to be kept secret, adding that "a current, careful reader of the newspapers would be as well informed."

At a dinner last night, Eisenhower told the governors in a brief informal talk that the meeting serves to "bring us back closer to the people of your states."

Then speaking in general about the American form of government, Eisenhower spoke out against officials, state or federal, "sitting in an ivory tower," oblivious of criticism. He said he welcomes any honest differences of opinion the governors may have with him, even violent differences.

Dulles Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said today Secretary of State Dulles has indicated he doubts Red China's Premier Chou En-lai will follow through on his offer to discuss Far Eastern tensions.

Smith said that Dulles' attitude was "a disappointment" and that he hoped the secretary would make it clear to Chou that the United States was not interested in a military dictatorship.

State Assembly Slated To Vote Tomorrow On Ouster Of Ex-Emperor

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's nationalist army has been joined by hard-hitting troops of the Cao Dai religious sect in a final offensive against the Binh Xuyen rebels.

The black-clad Cao Dai forces, commanded by Gen. Trinh Minh The, once were allied with the Binh Xuyen society and the Hoa Hao sect in a united front demanding Diem's resignation.

But Gen. The switched sides three months ago. He withdrew from the alliance when the Binh Xuyen leader, Gen. Le Van Vien, rejected demands that the anti-government campaign avoid armed struggle.

Now Gen. The has thrown four battalions of his troops, perhaps 2,400 men, to Diem's support and is helping in the mop-up of Vien's battered force of 2,000 men on Saigon's outskirts.

Gen. The and his aides, all anti-Communists and anti-Colonialists, are also cooperating in Diem's consolidation of his advantage on the political front over absentee Chief of State Bao Dai.

THE PREMIER formally convoked a "states general," an assembly of political party representatives and municipal and provincial officials, to pass judgment on the National Revolutionary Committee's weekend recommendation to depose Bao Dai. The assembly was called to meet in Saigon tomorrow.

In a nationwide broadcast, Diem said the national army also would have voice in the final decision on the committee's recommendations. Both the states general and the army were expected to approve the ousting of the playboy ex-emperor.

Mrs. Ott Heads County Home

Pickaway County commissioners have placed Mrs. Floyd Ott in full charge at the county home, located a short distance east of Circleville.

Chairman Bill Goode of the board of county commissioners said the action was taken Monday. Mrs. Ott is the widow of "Shorty" Ott, former head of the institution, who died last week.

In her new duties as head of the county infirmary, Mrs. Ott will receive $200 a month. Under the previous arrangement, her pay was $120 while the superintendent was paid $142 a month.

Ohio Refugee Study Group Meeting

COLUMBUS (AP) — A governor's committee on refugee relief met today to seek ways to help 214,000 people to become Americans.

The Ohio group is one of at least 35 formed in states after President Eisenhower asked for help to implement the Refugee Relief Act.

Under this measure, the 214,000 can come to America before Dec. 31, 1956, in addition to those allowed under regular quotas.

The group will aid Ohioans in sponsoring the refugees and help resettle the immigrants once they arrive in the state.

Warning Sounded On Military Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says military men just naturally ask for more forces than they need. In testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee, he said:

"SNAKE WHO SPENT WINTER IN TRUMPET"

As a special service to readers of this column who don't have an Encyclopedia, here are a few Snake Facts: Snakes are cold-blooded reptiles who spend their time slithering pretty girls and biting uranium prospectors. Snakes can be easily hypnotized by playing them flute music (preferably something suitable like two choruses of "Fangs for the Memories"). Snakes have no eyelids and it's impossible for them to wink (considering the great number of snakes around I guess they've worked out some other way to get acquainted). Snakes lay eggs (if trying one use a long thin pan). Snakes are too stupid to read, write or Droodle. And questions?

peror, who has been living on the French Riviera for the last 13 months.

The demands for Bao Dai's deposition followed his cabled order last week for Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, a supporter of his, to supplant Diem. The army refused to follow Vy, who scurried back to the hill resort of Dalat.

Reports of new French support and renewed U.S. backing bolstered the premier. French officials in Paris said last night that their government is prepared to "sacrifice" Bao Dai if his removal would promote stability.

In Washington, Henry Sydam, chief State Department press officer, said the United States "continues to support the legal government of free Viet Nam" headed by Diem. He refused to say whether Washington regards Bao Dai as chief of state.

SPECIAL Ambassador J. Lavton Collins has been instructed to give Diem 100 per cent backing, scrapping plans which might have curbed Diem's authority. New directives were said to have been sent to Collins while he was flying back to Saigon.

At the same time, the United States was understood to have requested both France and absentee Vietnamese chief of state Bao Dai to throw their full support behind Diem.

This plea reportedly was bolstered by an implied threat to cut off American military and economic aid if French authorities and Bao Dai continued to oppose Diem.

Executive Of Jets Talks To Kiwanis

Donald V. Labruzzo, assistant general manager of the Columbus Jets baseball team, was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club Monday.

The Youth Foundation, which Labruzzo also represents, is a non-profit organization designed to benefit the youth of central Ohio. Circleville shares in these benefits through the Boy Scouts.

Labruzzo expressed his belief that baseball is the greatest single factor in breaking down racial prejudices.

Other guests who attended included the Rev. James Recob, pastor of the Calvary EUB Church, and Burl Wiggins, telephone company head lineman.

DuPont Awarded New Safety Honor

A pennant representing the National Safety Council's Award of Honor for outstanding safety performance during 1954 has been received by the Du Pont Company's Circleville Plant.

The white pennant has 11 green stars, one for each year that the company has won the award. DuPont is the only company in the United States to have achieved the council's highest honor for 11 years.

The company set a new low record of accident frequency last year, the safest in DuPont history. The frequency rate—that is, the number of time-losing injuries per million man hours worked—was 0.33 last year, an improvement of 40 per cent over the previous year's 0.55.

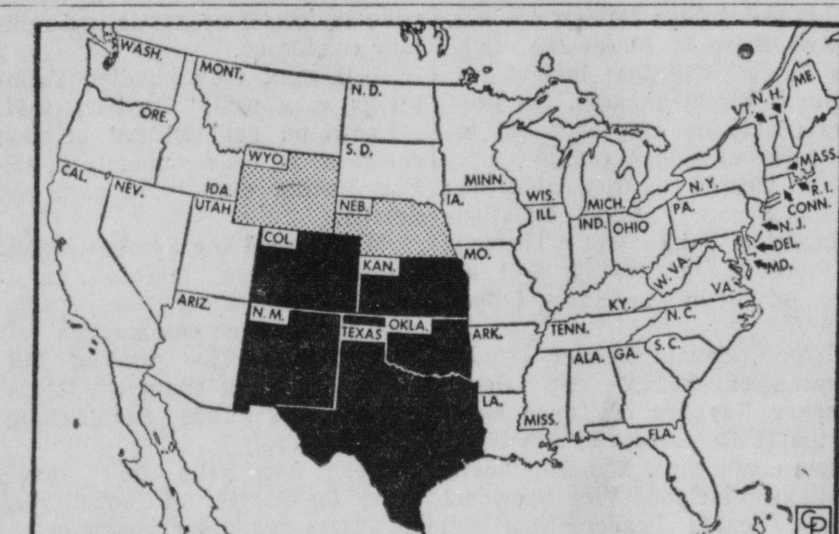

The rate is substantially less than the most recent available rate of 4.53 for the chemical industry as a whole and that of 7.44 for all industry.

Faulkner Novel Is Awarded Pulitzer Prize For 1955

NEW YORK (AP) — Novelist William Faulkner has been awarded the 1955 Pulitzer Prize for fiction for "A Fable," an allegorical novel of a World War I mutiny.

The year's drama award went to Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," a play dealing with the dissolution of a Mississippi Delta family. Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire" won him his first Pulitzer Prize in 1948.

The Columbus (Ga.) Ledger and Sunday Ledger-Enquirer won the 1955 award for "disinterested and meritorious public service."

The newspaper was cited for its complete news coverage and "fearless editorial attack" on the widespread corruption in nearby Phenix City, Ala.

Local reporting awards went, for the first time, to two small-town newspaper reporters, both of them from Texas.

They are Mrs. Caro Brown, of the Alice, (Tex.) Echo, and Roland K. Towery, 31, managing editor of the Cuero (Tex.) Record.

MRS. BROWN'S expose of 40 years of corruption and terrorism in Duval County, Tex., was adjudged the best example of reporting under the pressure of edition time.

Towery was cited for local reporting where edition time was not a factor. He is credited with exposing a Texas land scandal involving a $100-million fund set up by the state to help veterans buy land.

Other 1955 awards: History — Paul Horgan of Roswell, N. M., for "Great River, the Rio Grande in North American History," a book.

Biography — William S. White, member of the Washington bureau.

Kefauver Believes Treaty Threat Chances Actually Nil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said today Secretary of State Dulles had ended any "real threat" to the Constitution's treaty provisions.

But Kefauver added that Dulles had displayed a "willingness to clutter up the Constitution" with what Kefauver terms a "completely meaningless and wholly unnecessary amendment."

Dulles told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee yesterday that major part of a constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to curb the treaty power "would infringe the President's power as commander-in-chief and in the conduct of our foreign relations."

He said he concurs with President Eisenhower in regarding as acceptable that portion of Bricker's amendment which would assert that provisions of a treaty or other international agreement which conflict with the Constitution shall be invalid.

ACTUALLY, Dulles testified, many authorities feel it is already clear that the Constitution

City And County Health Officials End First Round Of Polio Shots

City health officials today said that first and second graders were the only ones receiving Salk polio vaccine shots here — with just a few exceptions.

One of the exceptions has to do with the nine vials of vaccine, each containing 3 cc's of the serum, which went to several physicians in town. These are classified as "token shipments" from private pharmaceutical houses and are given out at the doctor's discretion.

Another exception concerns transfer students who received "controlled" test shots last year in other sections of Ohio and are entitled to shots this year, although they may not be first or second graders.

Both the city and county health departments have completed their inoculations. The county received 828 cc's of vaccine and used 709 cc's; the city got 630 cc's and used 480 cc's.

DR. A. D. BLACKBURN, Pickaway County health commissioner, and C. O. Leist, Circleville health director, both say they have no instructions as to what to do with the excess vaccine. For the time being, these supplies are being kept under refrigeration, both men said.

Ohio's Health Director, Dr. Ralph Dwork, told the Herald that so far there have been no reports of "padding" school lists to obtain more vaccine. Also, he said, he had received no reports of "black marketing."

Dr. Dwork said he would be very interested to know if any of the serum earmarked for public health departments was being used through private channels.

"At the present time," Dr. Dwork told The Herald, "there is no set priority for giving shots. Children under 19 should get it first. The greatest 'danger age' is 7 to 9."

Dr. Dwork said further that no other shipments of the Salk polio vaccine have been received in Ohio to his knowledge. He said there were no definite plans for the second round of shots, which according to Dr. Jonas Salk (founder of the vaccine) should be given two to four weeks after the initial injection.

ACCORDING to the city health department here, no child, to the department's knowledge, has been given Salk shots so far except first and second graders—not including the exceptions mentioned earlier in the story.

City health officials said they did not know if any drug firms here had received any shipments of the serum.

Turnabout Witness Accused Of Lying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marie Natvig, 51-year-old turnabout witness, goes on trial in federal court today on charges she lied under oath when testifying for the government at the Edward Lamb hearing.

The slim, gray-haired divorcee and grandmother is accused of lying when she said Walter R. Powell Jr., a Federal Communications Commission attorney, "coerced" her into testifying falsely against Lamb.

She also is accused of lying in relating what was discussed in certain pre-hearing conversations with FCC representatives and a Miami FBI agent.

Morale At A-Test Site Is Problem

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP)—The problem of morale, both civilian and military, became a major factor in the much-delayed atomic test today.

With the big open shot slated only tentatively for tomorrow, there was considerable grumbling and griping among civil defense workers and GIs scheduled to participate. The latter group, of course, had to take it, but many of the civilians were leaving.

Harold L. Goodwin, test director for the Federal Civil Defense Administration, had a long "heart-to-heart" talk with field workers yesterday and apparently dissuaded the majority from pulling out.

Kidnaping Behind Slaying Of Waitress

FREMONT (AP) — The man who fired a bullet into the forehead of Mrs. Shirley Bradford, 29, early yesterday kidnaped her before he killed her, the Sandusky County sheriff's office believes.

The pretty brunette waitress' body was found by two farm workers in a lonely area three miles south of Fremont. She was fully clothed and the body bruises indicated a possible beating.

Mrs. Bradford went to work at 11 p. m. Sunday at the Hut restaurant where she had been employed since January. She was to have remained on duty until 7 a. m. Monday. Customers in the place told police she was there shortly after 3 a. m.

But, when William Widman, the proprietor, came to work at 4 a. m., he found the restaurant empty, the lights on, the cash register rifled of $115 and Mrs. Bradford's coat and purse where she had left them. There was no sign of a struggle in the restaurant, Widman said.

The victim is the mother of a 10-year-old son, Rickey. She and her husband, George, separated about a month ago. He went to Indiana, the sheriff's office said. Mrs. Bradford came here from South Carolina seven years ago.

Coroner, Wife Accused In Narcotic Case

BATAVIA (AP) — The coroner of Clermont County and his wife are to appear in mayor's court accused of fraudulently obtaining morphine.

State narcotics inspector Jack Braunstein said Dr. Frederick S. Sken and his wife, Helen, a registered nurse, got the morphine by prescribing it for patients and switching it with a harmless drug.

Dr. Sken, 44, has been coroner for this southwestern Ohio county for several years.

Braunstein said the physician would prescribe the narcotic for the patient, instruct him to get it back to the office. Then the doctor would switch the morphine or its derivative with phenobarbital and give the package back to the patient, Braunstein said.

Braunstein works for the state board of pharmacy, which became interested in the situation after noting a large number of morphine prescriptions in the area.

"According to the prescriptions written, half of the town is addicted to drugs," Braunstein commented. "But the patients haven't been using them."

He estimated the coroner had procured drugs worth thousands of dollars in a year's time but said he doubted the doctor was selling the morphine.

Polio Vaccine Controls Eyed

Switch In Ike Stand On Curbs Is Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — An early start appeared assured today for House hearings into the wisdom of federal controls over the distribution of Salk polio vaccine. The Eisenhower administration has thus far recommended against such controls.

But Secretary of Welfare Hobbby said last night she will recommend curbs to the White House "if it appears on the basis of our findings and discussions or developments that the fight against polio will best be advanced by such legislation."

A special government-sponsored advisory committee, comprised chiefly of private medical and health officials, yesterday recommended voluntary controls to deal with problems of supply, distribution and priorities.

Several members of Congress have called for federal controls to assure that the vaccine goes first to those who need it most—generally children from 5 to 9. Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) said yesterday the House Banking Committee will hold hearings on the question "as soon as possible."

MEANWHILE, it was reported that Ohio is in a five-state region showing fewer youngsters have been stricken this year with infantile paralysis.

That's the report of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which said that it is still too early to credit the Salk anti-polio vaccine for the drop.

Foundation statistics indicated the east north central section, comprising Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, recorded 129 polio cases up to April 23. This compared with 213 in the same period last year and 161 as an average for the last five years.

peror, who has been living on the French Riviera for the last 13 months.

The demands for Bao Dai's deposition followed his cabled order last week for Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, a supporter of his, to supplant Diem. The army refused to follow Vy, who scurried back to the hill resort of Dalat.

Reports of new French support and renewed U.S. backing bolstered the premier. French officials in Paris said last night that their government is prepared to "sacrifice" Bao Dai if his removal would promote stability.

In Washington, Henry Syudam, chief State Department press officer, said the United States "continues to support the legal government of free Viet Nam" headed by Diem. He refused to say whether Washington regards Bao Dai as chief of state.

SPECIAL Ambassador J. Lawton Collins has been instructed to give Diem 100 per cent backing, scrapping plans which might have curbed Diem's authority. New directives were said to have been sent to Collins while he was flying back to Saigon.

At the same time, the United States was understood to have requested both France and absentee Vietnamese chief of state Bao Dai to throw their full support behind Diem.

This plea reportedly was bolstered by an implied threat to cut off American military and economic aid if French authorities and Bao Dai continued to oppose Diem.

Executive Of Jets Talks To Kiwanis

Donald V. Labruzzo, assistant general manager of the Columbus Jets baseball team, was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club Monday.

The Youth Foundation, which Labruzzo also represents, is a non-profit organization designed to benefit the youth of central Ohio. Circleville shares in these benefits through the Boy Scouts.

Labruzzo expressed his belief that baseball is the greatest single factor in breaking down racial prejudices.

Other guests who attended included the Rev. James Recob, pastor of the Calvary EUB Church, and Burl Wiggins, telephone company head lineman.

DuPont Awarded New Safety Honor

A pennant representing the National Safety Council's Award of Honor for outstanding safety performance during 1954 has been received by the Du Pont Company's Circleville Plant.

The white pennant has 11 green stars, one for each year that the company has won the award. Du Pont is the only company in the United States to have achieved the council's highest honor for 11 years.

The company set a new low record of accident frequency last year, the safest in Du Pont history. The frequency rate—that is, the number of time-lossing injuries per million man hours worked—was 0.33 last year, an improvement of 40 per cent over the previous year's 0.55.

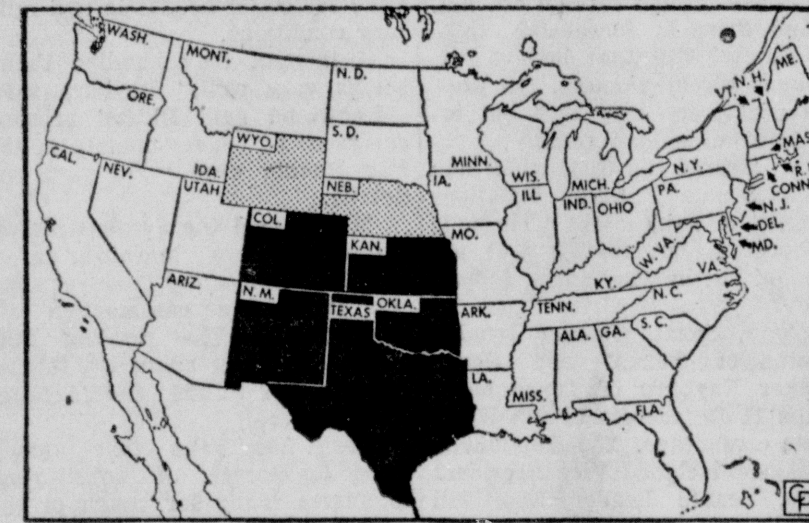

The rate is substantially less than the most recent available rate of 4.53 for the chemical industry as a whole and that of 7.44 for all industry.

Faulkner Novel Is Awarded Pulitzer Prize For 1955

NEW YORK — Novelist William Faulkner has been awarded the 1955 Pulitzer Prize for fiction for "A Fable," an allegorical novel of a World War I mutiny.

The year's drama award went to Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," a play dealing with the dissolution of a Mississippi Delta family. Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire" won him his first Pulitzer Prize in 1948.

The Columbus (Ga.) Ledger and Sunday Ledger-Enquirer won the 1955 award for "disinterested and meritorious public service."

The newspaper was cited for its complete news coverage and "fearless editorial attack" on the widespread corruption in nearby Phenix City, Ala.

Local reporting awards went, for the first time, to two small-town newspaper reporters, both of them from Texas.

They are Mrs. Caro Brown, of the Alice, (Tex.) Echo, and Roland K. Towery, 31, managing editor of the Cuero (Tex.) Record.

MRS. BROWN'S expose of 40 years of corruption and terrorism in Duval County, Tex., was adjudged the best example of reporting under the pressure of edition time.

Towery was cited for local reporting where edition time was not a factor. He is credited with exposing a Texas land scandal involving a $100 million fund set up by the state to help veterans buy land.

Other 1955 awards: History — Paul Horgan of Roswell, N. M., for "Great River, the Rio Grande in North American History," a book.

Biography—William S. White, member of the Washington bureau of the New York Times, for "The Taft Story."

Poetry — Wallace Stevens, a Hartford, Conn., insurance company vice president.

National reporting — Anthony Lewis, 28, staff member of the Washington Daily News, for a series of articles that brought about reinstallation of Abraham Chasana, dismissed from the Navy Department as a security risk.

International reporting — Harrison E. Salisbury, 47, of the New York Times, for articles on Russia.

Editorial writing — The Detroit Free Press, for an editorial by the newspaper's associate editor Royce Howes, who analyzed responsibility of labor and management in an unauthorized strike.

Cartoons—Daniel R. Fitzpatrick, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, for a cartoon showing Uncle Sam holding a bayoneted rifle, pondering whether to descend into a black swamp labeled "French Mistakes in Indochina."

News photography — John L. Gaunt Jr., of the Los Angeles Times, for a dramatic photograph of a young couple on a California beach, minutes after their 19-month-old son died in the surf.

City And County Health Officials End First Round Of Polio Shots

City health officials today said that first and second graders were the only ones receiving Salk polio vaccine shots here — with just a few exceptions.

One of the exceptions has to do with the nine vials of vaccine, each containing 3 cc's of the serum, which went to several physicians in town. These are classified as "token shipments" from private pharmaceutical houses and are given out at the doctor's discretion.

Another exception concerns transfer students who received "controlled" test shots last year in other sections of Ohio and are entitled to shots this year, although they may not be first or second graders.

Both the city and county health departments have completed their inoculations. The county received 828 cc's of vaccine and used 709 cc's; the city got 630 cc's and used 480 cc's.

DR. A. D. BLACKBURN, Pick-away County health commissioner, and C. O. Leist, Circleville health director, both say they have no instructions as to what to do with the excess vaccine. For the time being, these supplies are being kept under refrigeration, both men said.

Ohio's Health Director, Dr. Ralph Dwork, told the Herald that so far there have been no reports of "padding" school lists to obtain more vaccine. Also, he said, he had received no reports of "black marketeering."

Dr. Dwork said he would be very interested to know if any of the serum earmarked for public health departments was being used through private channels.

"At the present time," Dr. Dwork told The Herald, "there is no set priority for giving shots. Children under 19 should get it first. The greatest 'danger age' is 7 to 9."

Dr. Dwork said further that no other shipments of the Salk polio vaccine have been received in Ohio to his knowledge. He said there were no definite plans for the second round of shots, which according to Dr. Jonas Salk (founder of the vaccine) should be given two to four weeks after the initial injection.

ACCORDING to the city health department here, no child, to the department's knowledge, has been given Salk shots so far except first and second graders—not including the exceptions mentioned earlier in the story.

City health officials said they did not know if any drug firms here had received any shipments of the serum.

COLUMBUS — Sorry kids, but the doctor says it's time to slow down on this pogo-stick craze.

While claims for new records in the number of jumps were popping up here and there, Dr. Robert A. Evans, Franklin County health commissioner, said there's no doubt that "every time you bounce up and down on one of these things you have made your heart do extra work," and added there could be brain injury from the shocking bounces.

About 200 times in a row should be the maximum, Dr. Evans said. In Zaniesville, Ohio, 11-year-old Mary Jane Stebbins, daughter of Clair C. Stebbins, editor of the Zaniesville Signal, claimed the world record—6,202.

Kidnaping Behind Slaying Of Waitress

FREMONT — The man who fired a bullet into the forehead of Mrs. Shirley Bradford, 29, early yesterday kidnaped her before he killed her, the Sandusky County sheriff's office believes.

The pretty brunette waitress' body was found by two farm workers in a lonely area three miles south of Fremont. She was fully clothed and the body bruises indicated a possible beating.

Mrs. Bradford went to work at 11 p. m. Sunday at the Hut restaurant where she had been employed since January. She was to have remained on duty until 7 a. m. Monday. Customers in the place told police she was there shortly after 3 a. m.

But, when William Widman, the proprietor, came to work at 4 a. m., he found the restaurant empty, the lights on, the cash register rifled of $115 and Mrs. Bradford's coat and purse where she had left them. There was no sign of a struggle in the restaurant, Widman said.

The victim is the mother of a 10-year-old son, Rickey. She and her husband, George, separated about a month ago. He went to Indiana, the sheriff's office said. Mrs. Bradford came here from South Carolina seven years ago.

Coroner, Wife Accused In Narcotic Case

BATAVIA — The coroner of Clermont County and his wife are to appear in mayor's court accused of fraudulently obtaining morphine.

State narcotics inspector Jack Braunstein said Dr. Frederick S. Skeen and his wife, Helen, a registered nurse, got the morphine by prescribing it for patients and switching it with a harmless drug.

Dr. Skeen, 44, has been coroner for this southwestern Ohio county for several years.

Braunstein said the physician would prescribe the narcotic for the patient, instruct him to get it back to the office. Then the doctor would switch the morphine or its derivative with phenobarbital and give the package back to the patient, Braunstein said.

Braunstein works for the state board of pharmacy, which became interested in the situation after noting a large number of morphine prescriptions in the area.

"According to the prescriptions written, half of the town is addicted to drugs," Braunstein commented. "But the patients haven't been using them."

He estimated the coroner had procured drugs worth thousands of dollars in a year's time but said he doubted the doctor was selling the morphine.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a divorcee, 44, personable and well educated. I have three children—a son 22, now in engineering school, and two daughters, 10 and 13. I have a fairly responsible merchandising job and a modest home in a nice neighborhood, where the children attend church and school.

I have been divorced five years, and I try to be happy and content, but I am lonesome for the companionship of persons my age. I know I have a great capacity for love, consideration and comradeship, but I don't know what to do about it. I know there must be hundreds of others in the same fix, but how does one make contacts? I can't go out alone.

Business acquaintances say to me time and time again, "Why don't you find yourself a nice husband?" Sure, I even admit I should like that—but where? And how? The few unattached persons I meet, I become self-conscious with, as I feel they might think because I am a divorcee that I am looking for just such a man...

Man Ignores Bid
So many times I say to myself in lonely hours, "There must be many persons as lonely as I; where and how can I find them?" Must I resign myself to the fact that my life is finished? I don't want to cling to my children because I am lonely. People say, "You are fortunate to have them," which is true; but they aren't enough.

Also people say, "If you marry again, look for money." To which I reply, "There are a lot of things

Here's How Modern School Board Picks Superintendent

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—What does a school board look for today in a superintendent?

Five men attending a conference of presidents of state associations of school administrators sketched in a panel interview today how requirements have changed over the past quarter century.

First of all, said Henry L. Willett, Richmond, Va., president of the American Assn. of School Administrators, the day is past when a superintendent can concern himself with just "the five Bs"—buildings, bonds, buses, budgets and beans.

"Today," Willett said, "the demand is for people who can work with people, whether they are teachers, his staff or members of the community."

Will Crawford, former head of schools at San Diego, Calif., and now professor of education at the University of California at Los Angeles, said:

"The time is gone when a man might be selected for superintendent because he was a specialist, in public building construction perhaps, or for some reason of personal popularity—such as being a successful basketball coach."

"Today's school boards are setting up careful specifications covering such matters as education, experience, character and culture. Business sense is still important but, in addition, most boards want someone who believes thoroughly in public education."

A Connecticut superintendent, George R. Champlin, of Willimantic, added another qualification—a sense of public relations.

"One of our biggest jobs," he said, "is to set up formal and informal means to help people channel their thinking about our school-rooms. Official machinery often makes this difficult, so we must work more with parent-teacher associations, citizens committees and the like."

Another type of superintendent disappearing from the American school system, said Martin Essex, of Lakewood, Ohio, is "the quiet, retiring Latin scholar, who did well enough when we were concerned with only the top 20 per cent of our people."

"Today," Essex said, "we are concerned with the top 80 per cent. Scholarship cannot be abandoned, of course. But now we are asking also how well a man can involve his schools in a community's program."

Summarizing, Supt. Dean A. Trigg, of Ventura County, Calif., said a school administrator today must have:

Compassion, friendliness, patience, courage, creative vision, plenty of horse sense—and a rugged constitution.

To which Willett added: "A good wife."

School boards, he explained, are tending to look at the husband-wife team when hiring a superintendent.

Carpenters Strike In Hamilton Area

HAMILTON (AP)—Approximately 300 AFL carpenters are on strike in the Hamilton area today asking a pay increase of 25 cents an hour. That would make their scale $2.90 per hour.

The striking workmen are members of Local 63 Carpenters and Joiners Union.

Roth U. Bertsch president of the Hamilton General Contractors Assn. said a wage increase had been offered the men. He declined to say what it was but reports were that it was 10 cents an hour.

Some carpenters who were granted the wage boost in deals with independent contractors remained on the job today.

2 Burglars Get Prison Terms

TROY (AP)—Two men wanted in Illinois for robbery have been sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary for terms of one to 15 years on burglary charges.

Luther Williams, 46, of Dahlgren, Ill. and Harold Bryarly, 35, of Fort Wayne, Ind. pleaded guilty. Illinois authorities reported that when arrested here Feb. 20 they were out on bond on the Illinois charge.

A third man Van Watt Gardner, 40, of Fort Wayne charged with burglary in the same case also pleaded guilty but was returned to jail to await outcome of a probation investigation.

John Tyler, the President, was married twice and had 14 children—seven by each wife.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a divorcee, 44, personable and well educated. I have three children—a son 22, now in engineering school, and two daughters, 10 and 13. I have a fairly responsible merchandising job and a modest home in a nice neighborhood, where the children attend church and school.

I have been divorced five years, and I try to be happy and content, but I am lonesome for the companionship of persons my age. I know I have a great capacity for love, consideration and comradeship, but I don't know what to do about it. I know there must be hundreds of others in the same fix, but how does one make contacts? I can't go out alone.

Business acquaintances say to me time and time again, "Why don't you find yourself a nice husband?" Sure, I even admit I should like that—but where? And how? The few unattached persons I meet, I become self-conscious with, as I feel they might think because I am a divorcee that I am looking for just such a man.

Man Ignores Bid
So many times I say to myself in lonely hours, "There must be many persons as lonely as I; where and how can I find them?" Must I resign myself to the fact that my life is finished? I don't want to cling to my children because I am lonely. People say, "You are fortunate to have them," which is true; but they aren't enough.

Also people say, "If you marry again, look for money." To which I reply, "There are a lot of things

Our Girls and Boys in Service

Pvt. James Nye, stationed with the U. S. Army at Nurnberg, Germany, not far from the Russian border, recently phoned his wife in Circleville to wish her a happy birthday.

His wife, Lois, lives at 201 Logan St.

The soldier's address was given as follows:

Pvt. James Nye, Company C., 371st Armored Infantry B. & T., APO 696, New York City, N. Y.

S-Sgt. William Jones, son of Walter Jones, of 329 E. Ohio St., is presently stationed with the United States Air Force at Ernest Harmon Air Force Base, Newfoundland.

The base, a key station in the Northeast Air Command, is located on the west coast of Newfoundland. It is one of the first overseas refueling stops for military aircraft flying the North Atlantic route to Europe.

Jones entered military service in September 1947. Before going to Ernest Harmon AFB, Tenn. He has also been overseas duty in Japan. He is presently assigned with the 6605th Maintenance Squadron. Jones is married to the former Bernice Parker, daughter of W. A. Parker, of 1308 Caldwell Drive, Panama City, Fla.

America's Rubber Demands Decline

CINCINNATI (AP)—Thomas D. Callinan of the naval research laboratory at Washington declares that the United States' dependence on natural rubber from the Orient is being reduced by synthetics made with atomic power.

Callinan told the convention of the Electro-Chemical Society that action of nuclear rays has resulted in the development of new materials useful to the electrical insulating trade, among them synthetic rubber and plastics.

money can't buy." What can I do to solve my problem?

Study Laws of Life

DEAR L. D.: The kingdom of heaven is within the self, as Jesus taught. And now that you have many hours of leisure, unshared with others, you might profitably apply yourself to a study of the laws of life—to learn the why, and the how, of creative thinking and constructive behavior. For these endeavors produce the substance of happiness.

Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, Scripture says, and all things necessary to your welfare will materialize. The kingdom of God, in this sense, is the clear knowing of one's direct relationship to the Father-Creator of the universe; and "His righteousness" applied to your life means getting (consciously) on the beam of God's will for humanity, including His will for you individually—which assuredly contains all the good you could possibly experience.

For guidance along these lines—to rescue yourself from the wilderness of superficial thinking about life—study "The Sermon on the Mount" (Harper & Brothers) by Emmet Fox, one of the epochal textbooks of our time. Another guide to abundant living is a pamphlet titled "Instructions in the Life of Prayers"—issued by the Forward Movement Publications, 412 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

Prepare For True Love

The lonesome widow, divorcee or spinster of mature age, who pines for marriage or social companions, as the supposed solution of her loneliness, is doomed to frustration, until she changes her slant on her problem. The isolationist spirit, occupied with grabbing rather than giving, usually envelops, and accounts for, a dismal solitary private routine.

The person who has most life is the one who lives zestfully in his (or her) circumstances, whatever they are. And it is the function of womankind to be joy-giver and comfort-giver, wherever she is. Thus, instead of looking for husband-material in the market place you ought to be making your home a distributing center of kindness to any and all who are at hand. Thus will your light begin to shine, and your self-centered anxiety begin to dissolve. Then true love may germinate in your life, as it cannot in your present state of mind.

Surgeon General's Son Gets Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bobo Scheele, 7, got his arm jabbed yesterday and perhaps jabbed set a lot of qualms to rest.

Bobo is the son of Surgeon General Leonard Scheele who heads the U. S. Public Health Service. Scheele last week ordered one of the laboratories making Salk anti-polio vaccine to pull back all its shipments. He said tests were necessary because several youngsters treated with the company's vaccine came down with polio.

Scheele insisted this by no means indicated the nation's campaign to inoculate school children against polio should halt. He said his own boy would certainly go through with it. Bobo did.

Nervousness Seen Along Stock Market

Senate Probers, Wall Street Hold Varying Views Of Situation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock speculation that might get out of hand and undermine our good times worries the staff of the Fulbright stock market study committee.

But traders in Wall Street seem to fret more about the daily quota of cheer and gloom in the corporate news.

Both of these point to nervousness. In Washington, it's fear that the better than expected good times may go to the nation's head and foster gambling. In Wall Street, it's nervousness left the surprising bull market may have carried stock prices near their peak.

This nervousness shows up every time an occasional sour earnings report wedges into the parade of glowing profit statements from most companies. Price of the stock of the less fortunate company swings widely, and this often spreads to the market as a whole.

Or a corporation doesn't come through with the stock split, raised dividend or merger which rumor had predicted. A sharp break in the market follows.

These sudden and severe swings, either up or down, in stock prices worry many in Washington. These observers interpret the market's nervousness and fluctuations in recent weeks as evidence that speculators may be taking over from investors.

The report by the staff of the Senate Banking Committee, which Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D - Ark) heads, puts the cause for worry this way:

"When more and more people turn to the stock market for a quick profit rather than investment income, with an increasing reliance on credit, speculative excesses are likely to develop."

Should these excesses "push prices up to unsustainable levels," the report stresses, there could be "sharp reversals which can shake business confidence."

Beyond this worry over possible excesses to come, and too great use of credit in playing the market, the Fulbright staff finds little in the present situation that can be compared with the 1929 market that preceded the big crash.

Elsewhere in Washington a series of mill moves have been taken recently to put a check rein on the high-stepping economy.

The Federal Reserve Board has ordered stock traders to make a 70 per cent down payment when buying stocks. It also has raised the price of the money it lends its member banks.

The Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration have tightened up a little on rules for downpayments on houses.

President Eisenhower refers to these actions as "waving a red flag" of warning to business against trying to go too fast too soon.

So far, however, the stock market appears to be paying more attention to news of how individual corporations are doing.

The recent big flow of cheerful first quarter profit statements has given the bulls cause to feel they have been justified in their optimism. Forecasts that many companies will make even more money in the April, May and June quarter have boosted the price of their stocks.

The wave of predictions that good

AFL-CIO Merger's Meaning

Labor Planning Major Role In Politics Next Election

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of five articles on the merger of the AFL and CIO and what it may mean to the future of America.

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor is planning today to move into politics in the 1956 elections on a scale never before attempted in the history of the American trade union movement.

This move will begin after the AFL and CIO merge their 140 unions into one 15-million-man organization this fall—perhaps in December.

AFL President George Meany, who will head the new federation, said in an interview:

"We're going as far down that (political) road as it is necessary to go to achieve our objective—and that objective is the raising of the living standards of the working man."

This plunge into politics will be an historic turning point for labor as far as the 10-million-member AFL is concerned. In the past, the AFL has remained pretty much on the political sidelines except to endorse this or that candidate for public office, although the CIO has been active politically for years.

Meany believes now labor must move onto the political front in force for self-protection. This is his reasoning:

"We are being compelled by the force of events to take defensive action to make sure that we are not hampered and restricted at the bargaining table. We are being compelled to enter the political field in order to change the political picture that is developing against labor. And the job must be done not only on the national level—but on the state level."

The Taft-Hartley law and restrictive state laws are putting all the weapons in the hands of employers. So there is no other way left open to us but to take political action."

Meany referred to the spread of so-called "right to work" laws and laws which curb the use of union funds for political purposes.

The Taft-Hartley law forbids the use of union funds for political purposes and it also bans the closed shop, in which only union members may be hired. The law permits, under certain conditions, the union, shop, in which a worker must become a union member within a certain period after he is hired. Now 18 states have the right-to-work laws, which for the most part ban the union shop. Some states are moving, too, to curb union political activity.

In referring to these laws, Meany said: "We are seeing right now a new move under way to strike at labor from a new direction. There is a new effort to block us on the political front and to prevent our members from taking action on a political level."

"But I say we are going to be political to the extent that we are forced to be in the protection of our own rights at the bargaining table. What the hell is the use of going to the bargaining table if you are going to have your hands tied behind your back?"

Meany has had political experience in helping push pro-labor laws through the New York Legislature. As he and his colleagues see it the Taft-Hartley law in combination with the growing state restrictions merely are moves by labor's enemies to throttle the labor movement, which has boomed to new power and influence in the past 20 years.

The states with right-to-work laws are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, and Virginia.

While none of the bigger industrial states have such laws, labor is fearful of their spread.

Labor's political strategy will be to concentrate the main effort in areas where there is a good chance to elect candidates friendly to labor.

Can the labor vote be delivered as a bloc for any one party or candidate?

Labor leaders believe that with intense political education, workers will better understand how to vote in their own interests—and in the interests of the labor movement—thus becoming a far stronger political force.

Where could organized labor make its weight felt most heavily by a vigorous campaign in support of its candidates?

The answer would seem to be in those states where there is the heaviest concentration of union members. And these states are New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan, Texas, Missouri, and Massachusetts. But many other states have important numbers of labor votes. The question is whether labor's leaders can hold them in line at the polls.

In any event, labor is getting ready for a political push. And just how potent it will be may be reflected in the 1956 elections.

Next: A third party?

If you thought those old "singing telegrams" were something to watch, wait until you get a whiff of the "wires"—they are going to deliver for Mother's Day — which comes next Sunday.

Western Union, on the day set aside to honor "Ma", will deliver telegrams that carry a delicate fragrance of carnation, the beloved Mother's Day flower. C. W. (Cotton) Clark, local manager for the telegraph company, figures that more than 500,000 mothers will get the perfumed telegrams this year. On the sending blanks you can have your choice of 31 messages, some in rhyme.

Some wags have already suggested that the perfumed telegram idea can be tried out also for Father's Day—with a mellow hint of tobacco.

Nervousness Seen Along Stock Market

Senate Probers, Wall Street Hold Varying Views Of Situation

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Stock speculation that might get out of hand and undermine our good times worries the staff of the Fulbright stock market study committee.

But traders in Wall Street seem to fret more about the daily quota of cheer and gloom in the corporate news.

Both of these point to nervousness. In Washington, it's fear that the better than expected good times may go to the nation's head and foster gambling. In Wall Street, it's nervousness left the surprising bull market may have carried stock prices near their peak. This nervousness shows up every time an occasional sour earnings report wedges into the parade of glowing profit statements from most companies. Price of the stock of the less fortunate company swings widely, and this often spreads to the market as a whole.

Or a corporation doesn't come through with the stock split, raised dividend or merger which rumor had predicted. A sharp break in the market follows.

These sudden and severe swings, either up or down, in stock prices worry many in Washington. These observers interpret the market's nervousness and fluctuations in recent weeks as evidence that speculators may be taking over from investors.

The report by the staff of the Senate Banking Committee, which Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D - Ark) heads, puts the cause for worry this way:

"When more and more people turn to the stock market for a quick profit rather than investment income, with an increasing reliance on credit, speculative excesses are likely to develop."

Should these excesses "push prices up to unsustainable levels," the report stresses, there could be "sharp reversals which can shake business confidence."

Beyond this worry over possible excesses to come, and too great use of credit in playing the market, the Fulbright staff finds little in the present situation that can be compared with the 1929 market that preceded the big crash.

Elsewhere in Washington a series of mil. moves have been taken recently to put a check rein on the high-stepping economy.

The Federal Reserve Board has ordered stock traders to make a 70 per cent down payment when buying stocks. It has also raised the price of the money it lends its member banks.

The Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration have tightened up a little on rules for downpayments on houses.

President Eisenhower refers to these actions as "waving a red flag" of warning to business against trying to go too fast too soon.

So far, however, the stock market appears to be paying more attention to news of how individual corporations are doing.

The recent big flow of cheerful first quarter profit statements has given the bulls cause to feel they have been justified in their optimism. Forecasts that many companies will make even more money in the April, May and June quarter have boosted the price of their stocks.

The wave of predictions that good

AFL-CIO Merger's Meaning

Labor Planning Major Role In Politics Next Election

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of five articles on the merger of the AFL and CIO and what it may mean to the future of America.

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor is planning today to move into politics in the 1956 elections on a scale never before attempted in the history of the American trade union movement.

This move will begin after the AFL and CIO merge their 140 unions into one 15-million-man organization this fall—perhaps in December.

AFL President George Meany, who will head the new federation, said in an interview:

"We're going as far down that (political) road as it is necessary to go to achieve our objective—and that objective is the raising of the living standards of the working man."

This plunge into politics will be an historic turning point for labor as far as the 10-million-member AFL is concerned. In the past, the AFL has remained pretty much on the political sidelines except to endorse this or that candidate for public office, although the CIO has been active politically for years.

Meany believes now labor must move onto the political front in force for self-protection. This is his reasoning:

"We are being compelled by the force of events to take defensive action to make sure that we are not hampered and restricted at the bargaining table. We are being compelled to enter the political field in order to change the political picture that is developing against labor. And the job must be done not only on the national level—but on the state level."

"The Taft-Hartley law and restrictive state laws are putting all the weapons in the hands of employers. So there is no other way left open to us but to take political action."

Meany referred to the spread of so-called "right to work" laws and laws which curb the use of union funds for political purposes.

The Taft-Hartley law forbids the use of union funds for political purposes and it also bans the closed shop, in which only union members may be hired. The law permits, under certain conditions, the union, shop, in which a worker must become a union member within a certain period after he is hired. Now 18 states have the right-to-work laws, which for the most part ban the union shop. Some states are moving, too, to curb union political activity.

In referring to these laws, Meany said: "We are seeing right now a new move under way to strike at labor from a new direction. There is a new effort to block us on the political front and to prevent our members from taking action on a political level."

"But I say we are going to be political to the extent that we are forced to be in the protection of our own rights at the bargaining table. What the hell is the use of going to the bargaining table if you are going to have your hands tied behind your back?"

Meany has had political experience in helping push pro-labor laws through the New York Legislature. As he and his colleagues see it the Taft-Hartley law in combination with the growing state restrictions merely are moves by labor's enemies to throttle the labor movement, which has boomed to new power and influence in the past 20 years.

The states with right-to-work laws are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, and Virginia.

While none of the bigger industrial states have such laws, labor is fearful of their spread.

Labor's political strategy will be to concentrate the main effort in areas where there is a good chance to elect candidates friendly to labor.

Can the labor vote be delivered as a bloc for any one party or candidate?

Labor leaders believe that with intense political education, workers will better understand how to vote in their own interests—and in the interests of the labor movement—thus becoming a far stronger political force.

Where could organized labor make its weight felt most heavily by a vigorous campaign in support of its candidates?

The answer would seem to be in those states where there is the heaviest concentration of union members. And these states are New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan, Texas, Missouri, and Massachusetts. But many other states have important numbers of labor votes. The question is whether labor's leaders can hold them in line at the polls.

In any event, labor is getting ready for a political push. And just how potent it will be may be reflected in the 1956 elections.

Next: A third party?

If you thought those old "singing telegrams" were something to watch, wait until you get a whiff of the "wires"—they are going to deliver for Mother's Day — which comes next Sunday.

Western Union, on the day set aside to honor "Ma", will deliver telegrams that carry a delicate fragrance of carnation, the beloved Mother's Day flower. C. W. (Cotton) Clark, local manager for the telegraph company, figures that more than 500,000 mothers will get the perfumed telegrams this year. On the sending blanks you can have your choice of 31 messages, some in rhyme.

Some wags have already suggested that the perfumed telegram idea can be tried out also for Father's Day—with a mellow hint of tobacco.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidents Truman and Eisenhower both reached a point in their White House stay where things began to look a little better to them around the world.

Truman guessed wrong and remained in office long enough to find it out. Eisenhower has 21 months of his term left. That should be long enough to tell whether his present careful optimism is justified.

When Truman faced reporters April 13, 1950 he had been in office five years and one day. In those five years in which the wartime allies had split and the cold war had begun, this country had taken a number of steps to stop the spread of communism:

It had armed Greece and Turkey; it had created the Marshall Plan to get Western Europe back on its feet and it was succeeding; and it helped set up the North Atlantic Alliance.

But communism had spread nevertheless: after taking over the satellites the Communists got Czechoslovakia and the Chinese Communists late in 1949 took over China.

Nevertheless the Truman administration was cutting down its military spending and on April 13, 1950 the President told newsmen the prospects for peace looked better than at any time since the cold war started in 1946.

Then in June the United States was in war in Korea and remained in war for the rest of Truman's term.

The Eisenhower administration explaining its increased reliance on new weapons is cutting down the size of the armed forces although Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, has taken a gloomy view of Army reductions.

On military spending Truman and Eisenhower faced the same problem: the country couldn't afford to stay fully mobilized indefinitely. Both men sought a middle ground.

Last week Eisenhower told a news conference, "I confess I have a feeling that things are on the upswing." But he said he could take every single favorable point and balance it by something that doesn't look too favorable.

Eisenhower had obtained a truce in Korea so there was no war now. And as hopeful signs of peace—perhaps—he noted Russia's expressed willingness to sign an Austrian peace treaty and the

There are no charges for the evening. The dance is held to afford some recognition for the young people of Circleville and other parts of the county. There will also be square dancing, with Ross Dillow as the caller.

Kiwanis Dance Set For Children Fund

The Circleville Kiwanis Club will sponsor a Spring Dance next Friday night for the benefit of the Underprivileged Children Fund maintained by the organization.

Dancing will be at Memorial Hall from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. Music will be by Dick Welch's orchestra. Due to extra needs of the community in the way of help for underprivileged children, the club decided to hold the dance to replace funds usually raised through the club's minstrel show.

All proceeds will be used directly for needy children. Tickets can be obtained from any Kiwanis member.

growing confidence around the world in this country's peaceful intentions.

In addition the Red Chinese have suggested talks to "relax tension." Turning this picture around Eisenhower mentioned events which may mean serious trouble: the Red Chinese air power buildup opposite Formosa; the trouble in South Viet Nam.

Maybe Eisenhower's "feeling" about "things on the upswing" will turn out better than Truman's optimism about peace. Maybe.

FARM NEWS and VIEWS

By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

SPITTLEBUGS: The number of calls received in the Pickaway County Extension Office concerning spittlebug the past week would seem to indicate a need for a repeat of the recommendations in this column. Here it is:

Spraying should be done during the first 10 days in May to achieve best results. If a farmer is undecided whether to spray, a good rule of thumb is to spray if the spittle masses average one mass per plant.

Materials to use are:
1st choice-Benzene hexachloride - 1 quart of 10-12 percent gamma isomer liquid concentrate per acre in whatever gallonage of water can be efficiently applied per acre.

2nd choice-Toxaphene - 1½ lbs. or 1 quart of 60 percent liquid concentrate per acre in whatever water is needed.

3rd choice-Methoxychlor-1 pound or 2 quarts of 25 percent liquid concentrate in whatever water is needed.

If field is to be pastured, Methoxychlor should be used. Animals, even then should be removed while spraying.

Legumes sprayed with Toxaphene or Benzene Hexachloride should not be harvested or pastured for 3 weeks following treatment.

CAMP SCHEDULES: Final camp schedules for Pickaway County were worked out at a recent meeting of Ross-Hocking Camps, Inc. Pickaway County is a member of the camp corporation.

Camp schedule for Pickaway and Ross County 4-H's will be:

Junior Camp, July 18 to 22;
Senior 4-H Camp, July 26 to 30 at Tar Hollow State Forest.

Women's Camp has been set for June 24 to June 26, and Men's Camp August 13 to 14 at Caners Cave in Jackson County. It became necessary to shift Men's and Women's camps to Caners Cave to make room for an increased 4-H Camp Enrollment.

CROP PRODUCTION: In 1954, Pickaway County farmers planted 88,500 acres of corn and harvested an average of 66.3 bushels per acre, one of the highest yields in history. The state average was 57 bushels per acre.

The above figures were released recently by the agricultural Statistician of the Ohio Crop Reporting Service.

Figures for other crops with acres harvested, yield per acre and state average yield listed in order are:

Wheat 47,400, 26.3, 25.9; oats 12,400 48.1, 40.1; soybeans 13,600, 25.6, 25.5.

41,700 acres of hay were harvested with an average yield of

1.45 ton per acre. The state average was 1.53 tons per acre.

as farmers. A low percent is associated with high prosperity.

Following is a list of countries with percentages of people engaged in farming:

U. S. 11 percent, Canada 16 percent, Denmark 23 percent, Italy 39 percent, Japan 47 percent, Brazil 58 percent, Egypt 65 percent, Indonesia 66 percent, India 66 percent, Yugoslavia 75 percent and Thailand 85 percent.

We do not have figures for Iron Curtain Countries, but we would assume the percentage would be even higher in most cases.

PLANT TREES: 19 4-H Clubs of Pickaway County gathered at the fairgrounds on April 23 to plant trees as a beautification project.

The 4-H Members, parents and advisors with pick and shovel dug 20 trees ranging in size from 6 to 14 feet tall and transplanted them in designated locations.

Trees were planted in groups of three, arranged in a triangle to provide shade over a large area.

April 23 is considered to be late for transplanting trees. However, chicken manure, compost, and any other state of the Union.

More species of minerals are found in North Carolina than in any other state of the Union.

Buick alone brings you the year's two big sensations -

It didn't take the car buyers of the nation very long to discover that this year Buick's the car with more headline news than a newspaper.

And the news is so good—in styling, in power, in performance, and in price—that Buick sales are soaring to an all-time best-seller high.

But even in a long list of standout developments engineered by Buick for 1955, two are so "hot," they stand out as the sensations of the year, by far.

One is the new kind of automobile you see pictured here...

The 4-Door Riviera—a new kind of body design...

A true hardtop with no center doorposts to obstruct your view to the sides—yet with separate doors for rear-seat passengers, plus full Buick-size Sedan room for all.

The other sensation—and we mean that literally—is a new kind of automatic transmission...

Variable Pitch Dynaflo—a new kind of magic principle after the modern plane's switch-pitch propeller...

A silk-smooth wonder drive with twenty propeller-like blades that angle one way for extra gas mileage in cruising—then switch their pitch when you press the pedal way down to give you an instantaneous burst of getaway or accelerating power when you need a safety surge split-second quick.

So if you want the performance thrill of the year in the new kind of hardtop that's sweeping the country—better come see us real soon, for only in a Buick can you get them both.

P.S. #1: The 4-Door Riviera is coming off the assembly lines in full volume—in the low-price SPECIAL Series, and in the high-powered CENTURY Series—and both at the moderate extra cost of a 4-door model over a 2-door model.

P.S. #2: Today's spectacular Variable Pitch Dynaflo costs no more than earlier versions of this pace-setting Drive.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

The dance is part of the youth activities program of the Circleville Elks Lodge and is held for the benefit of the juniors and seniors of all the local high schools. There are no charges for the evening. The dance is held to afford some recognition for the young people of Circleville and other parts of the county. There will also be square dancing, with Ross Dillow as the caller.

Kiwanis Dance Set For Children Fund

The Circleville Kiwanis Club will sponsor a Spring Dance next Friday night for the benefit of the Underprivileged Children Fund maintained by the organization.

Dancing will be at Memorial Hall from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. Music will be by Dick Welch's orchestra.

Due to extra needs of the community in the way of help for underprivileged children, the club decided to hold the dance to replace funds usually raised through the club's minstrel show.

All proceeds will be used directly for needy children. Tickets can be obtained from any Kiwanis member.

In addition the Red Chinese have suggested talks to "relax tension." Turning this picture around Eisenhower mentioned events which may mean serious trouble: the Red Chinese air power buildup opposite Formosa; the trouble in South Viet Nam.

Maybe Eisenhower's "feeling" about "things on the upswing" will turn out better than Truman's optimism about peace. Maybe.

FARM NEWS and VIEWS

By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

SPITTLEBUGS: The number of calls received in the Pickaway County Extension Office concerning spittlebug the past week would seem to indicate a need for a repeat of the recommendations in this column. Here it is:

Spraying should be done during the first 10 days in May to achieve best results. If a farmer is undecided whether to spray, a good rule of thumb is to spray if the spittle masses average one mass per plant.

Materials to use are:
1st choice-Benzene hexachloride - 1 quart of 10-12 percent gamma isomer liquid concentrate per acre in whatever gallonage of water can be efficiently applied per acre.

2nd choice - Toxaphene - 1 1/2 lbs. or 1 quart of 60 percent liquid concentrate per acre in whatever water is needed.

3rd choice-Methoxychlor-1 pound or 2 quarts of 25 percent liquid concentrate in whatever water is needed.

If field is to be pastured, Methoxychlor should be used. Animals, even then should be removed while spraying.

Legumes sprayed with Toxaphene or Benzene Hexachloride should not be harvested or pastured for 3 weeks following treatment.

CAMP SCHEDULES: Final camp schedules for Pickaway County were worked out at a recent meeting of Ross-Hocking Camps, Inc. Pickaway County is a member of the camp corporation.

Camp schedule for Pickaway and Ross County 4-H's will be:
Junior Camp, July 18 to 22;
Senior 4-H Camp, July 26 to 30 at Tar Hollow State Forest.

Women's Camp has been set for June 24 to June 26, and Men's Camp August 13 to 14 at Canters Cave in Jackson County. It became necessary to shift Men's and Women's camps to Canters Cave to make room for an increased 4-H Camp Enrollment.

CROP PRODUCTION: In 1954, Pickaway County farmers planted 88,500 acres of corn and harvested an average of 66.3 bushels per acre, one of the highest yields in history. The state average was 57 bushels per acre.

The above figures were released recently by the agricultural statistician of the Ohio Crop Reporting Service.

Figures for other crops with acres harvested, yield per acre and state average yield listed in order are:

Wheat 47,400, 26.3, 25.9; oats 12,400 48.1, 40.1; soybeans 13,600, 25.6, 25.5.

41,700 acres of hay were harvested with an average yield of

1.45 ton per acre. The state average was 1.53 tons per acre.

GREENHOUSE VEGETABLE DAY

Vegetable growers of Pickaway County will be interested in attending Greenhouse Vegetable Day at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster on May 12.

A complete program has been arranged including discussions by scientists on greenhouse insect problems, developments in plant disease control, progress in breeding of vegetable crops, handling of the soil and post-harvest handling of tomatoes.

PROSPERITY: It has been said that prosperity of a country can be directly associated with the percentage of the population working as farmers. A low percent is associated with high prosperity.

Following is a list of countries with percentages of people engaged in farming:

U. S. 11 percent, Canada 16 percent, Denmark 23 percent, Italy 39 percent, Japan 47 percent, Brazil 58 percent, Egypt 65 percent, Indonesia 66 percent, India 66 percent, Yugoslavia 75 percent and Thailand 85 percent.

We do not have figures for Iron Curtain Countries, but we would assume the percentage would be even higher in most cases.

PLANT TREES: 19 4-H Clubs of Pickaway County gathered at the fairgrounds on April 23 to plant trees as a beautification project.

The 4-H Members, parents and advisors with pick and shovel dug 20 trees ranging in size from 6 to 14 feet tall and transplanted them in designated locations.

Trees were planted in groups of three, arranged in a triangle to provide shade over a large area.

April 23 is considered to be late for transplanting trees. However, chicken manure, compost, and commercial fertilizer was applied to some cases, and most of the trees should have a good chance to survive.

More species of minerals are found in North Carolina than in any other state of the Union.

Buick alone brings you the year's two big sensations -

1 The 4-Door Riviera

2 Variable Pitch Dynaflo

HOTTEST-SELLING BUICK IN HISTORY

No wonder you see so many '55 Buicks on the highways — they're rolling up bigger sales than ever before in history — capping the popularity that has already moved Buick into the top circle of America's best sellers.

It didn't take the car buyers of the nation very long to discover that this year Buick's the car with more headline news than a newspaper.

And the news is so good—in styling, in power, in performance, and in price—that Buick sales are soaring to an all-time best-seller high.

But even in a long list of standout developments engineered by Buick for 1955, two are so "hot," they stand out as the sensations of the year, by far.

One is the new kind of automobile you see pictured here...

The 4-Door Riviera—a new kind of body design...

A true hardtop with no center doorposts to obstruct your view to the sides—yet with separate doors for rear-seat passengers, plus full Buick-size Sedan room for all.

The other sensation—and we mean that literally—is a new kind of automatic transmission...

Variable Pitch Dynaflo—a new kind of magic principle based on the modern plane's switch-pitch propeller...

A silk-smooth wonder drive with twenty propeller-like blades that angle one way for extra gas mileage in cruising—then switch their pitch when you press the pedal way down to give you an instantaneous burst of getaway or accelerating power when you need a safety surge split-second quick.

So if you want the performance thrill of the year in the new kind of hardtop that's sweeping the country—better come see us real soon, for only in a Buick can you get them both.

P.S. #1: The 4-Door Riviera is coming off the assembly lines in full volume—in the low-price SPECIAL Series, and in the high-powered CENTURY Series—and both at the moderate extra cost of a 4-door model over a 2-door model.

P.S. #2: Today's spectacular Variable Pitch Dynaflo costs no more than earlier versions of this pace-setting Drive.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

TREND TO POWER

ORGANIZED LABOR is stepping up its field force to bring white collar workers into the fold. This is a major goal which the labor leaders have never been able to approach. It will be interesting to see how much progress is made this time.

Labor leaders are also flirting with farmers in the hope of effecting a firm political merger. The ultimate aim, of course, is to make farmers dues-paying members of unions.

It is not clear whether union heads realize that the more powerful their organizations become, the more they invite stringent government controls. Already the huge industrial unions capable of stifling industry and commerce are threatened with being brought under anti-trust laws.

With organized labor coming under a single directional head, the temptation will be to put everyone into one vertical union. The unions, however, would be in better health for the long pull if they stuck to the original idea of the craft unions where workers in one plant unite and act for their own welfare in that plant.

Anything beyond that moves into the big power game, subject to being cut down to size by popular sentiment. America has always operated that way in the past, at any rate.

LAUGH NOW

PICTURE IN the daily journals of a man standing on a stove lid 10 feet off the ground with no visible means of support struck most persons as funny. But there is no doubt that the Navy's new "flying platform" is a serious and perhaps revolutionary contribution to aviation.

If the country is about to move in earnest into the fantasy world of flying saucers and airborne tiddleywinks, the populace might as well enjoy a laugh while it can. These things are always more amusing in anticipation than they turn out to be in fact.

And time is fleeting. The new gadget sounds so simple both in principle and operation that its wholesale absorption into daily life seems only a matter of moments. "I'd let my kids fly it," said the test pilot. A trained bear could run it said one observer.

Is this it? The toy to make all toys obsolete? Many a parent has a disturbing memory of such things as steel battleships, submarines and airplanes which began with that cute look of babyhood and outgrew it with the speed of lightning.

ADVICE TO WOMEN

TO A SYMPOSIUM on problems of older women Dr. Catharine MacFarlane of Pennsylvania Medical College brought some sage advice, likely to go unheeded.

Women in their middle years, said Dr. MacFarlane, should stay away from chocolate sundaes and from their husbands while taking vacations. Here is the nub of Dr. MacFarlane's difficulty: The woman has yet to be identified who felt overweight while eating an ice cream sundae or middle-aged in the company of a man.

These Days

When last February, the Nationalists on Formosa evacuated the Tachen Islands, with the assistance of the American Seventh Fleet, they assumed that they had an agreement, in writing, with the United States that because of such evacuation, Quemoy and Matsu would be defended by the United States. They believed that to be true up to Sunday, April 24, when Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson arrived on Formosa to tell them otherwise.

(In this article, I am trying to give the picture as I understand the Chinese on Formosa see it. I do not know, of my own knowledge, what the Tachen evacuation agreement was.)

As a matter of fact, the initial rejection of Chou En-lai's invitation to talk on a Saturday, which was nullified on the following Tuesday, was in conformity with the spirit, if not the letter, of such an agreement.

To the Nationalists, therefore, the change of attitude between Saturday and Tuesday is in the nature of a double cross—"walk the garden path," as the Chinese say it—and they are blaming it, as usual, on the British, by which they mean that the constant necessity for adjusting American to British policy, or, to put it differently, the readjustments of American and British policy give the British, who dislike Chiang Kai-shek, an opportunity to influence American views.

The Nationalists intend to stay put which is embarrassing to the United States, because the question then arises, will the United States blast the Nationalists off Quemoy and Matsu in the interest of Communist China. The alternative to that is to let the Nationalists do their own fighting, the Seventh Fleet watching the engagement. The Nationalists will, of course, fight with American equipment just as the Chinese Communists will fight with Russian equipment.

It will be something like the Civil War in Spain during which one side was supported by Soviet Russia and the other side by Nazi Germany. It might even be regarded in Asia as a prelude to the big fight.

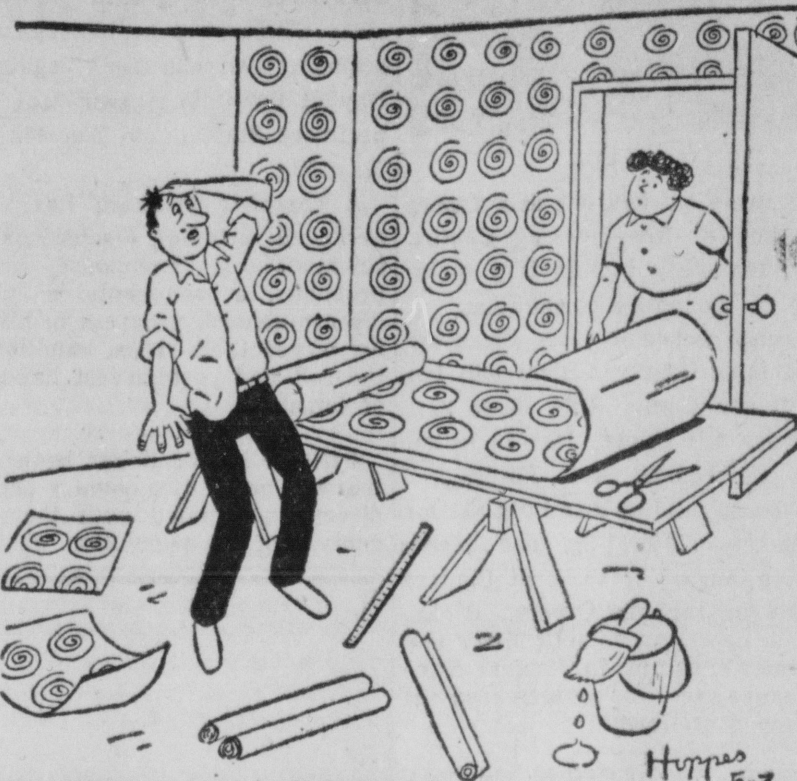

Should the Nationalists be defeated and the Communists decide to push on to Formosa, the Seventh Fleet would become engaged automatically, unless the United States decided to violate its treaty of alliance with Nationalist China. Should such a violation occur, the Communists could readily take Formosa and Japan would be forced to reconsider her position vis-a-vis the United States. The Japan-Australia line would be in a state of collapse, and the United States would have to form a new defensive line, probably with Pearl Harbor as the core. The Southeast Asia would go pro-Communist China and anti-American because no country can accept the reliability of a treaty-breaker.

Nobody in Asia is quite sure as to what American policy is. Chiang Kai-shek has put his faith in Radford and Robertson, two excellent officials, who have been required to make proposals to him which he cannot and will not accept. Suicide is, for him, more acceptable, and may some day be the only way out.

Chiang has been dealing with countries for a long time. He understands that Radford and Robertson were sent on the mission to nullify the agreement concerning Quemoy and Matsu precisely because the Nationalists regard them as friends and trust them.

New Drugs That Treat Many Different Ills

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NEW drugs and medical procedures are constantly being introduced these days.

Liquid Bardase, a new form of a drug used in treating peptic ulcer, ulcerative colitis, irritated colon, genito-urinary disturbances and dysmenorrhea, or female pain during menstruation, is one of them. Introduced a year ago in tablet form, it is thought that some people may now find it easier to take.

For Stomach Disorders

One or two spoonfuls of the drug three times a day is the usual dosage. Available only by prescription, the drug is said to decrease activity of the stomach and intestinal tract, pre-digest starches before they reach the small intestine, and partially block impulses from the high brain centers to the stomach.

New fortified antibiotics have been developed to provide vitamin requirements needed in stress conditions resulting from infections, wounds, burns or surgery. The Pfizer Laboratories recently announced the development of the combinations known as terramycin-SF and tetracycline-SF.

Each capsule contains a quarter of the usual daily antibiotic dose required for acute infection, plus a quarter of the daily special vitamin supplement needed under conditions of stress. The daily antibiotic dosage of four capsules insures the recommended daily therapeutic dose of vitamins necessary to build up the patient. The capsules are available only upon a doctor's prescription.

New uses are reported for the drug Serpassil. Serpassil is a pure crystalline alkaloid of rauwolfia root. Doctors report it produces a tranquilizing effect and sense of well-being in patients suffering anxiety, tension, nervousness and mild-to-severe neuroses.

It is being used in treating elderly psychotics to promote better adjustment to environmental and physical stress. It is available through your doctor.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A.C.: Are bleeding hemorrhoids dangerous and how can one be sure that the blood is from piles?

Answer: Bleeding hemorrhoids require attention. An operation may be necessary. An examination by your doctor would be needed to determine from just what source the blood is coming.

SYNOPSIS

Landon McCree is on her way from her job in New York to the town of Windermere in Canada, where her happily married sister, Maggie Scarffe, is ill. A "spot" on Maggie's lungs will send her from some for treatment and in her absence, Landon will take over the household, comprising Maggie's husband, Eric, a teacher, her small daughter, Merry-o, and "Gran," Scott White, bachelor and old beau at Landon is delighted at the prospect of her return to Windermere.

CHAPTER THREE

MAGGIE'S house, to Landon, was now home.

But this was going to be altogether different from a gay holiday visit.

Landon lay awake considering the months ahead of her. In taking Maggie's place she would be answerable for the health and welfare of a six-year-old child, a lonely man and an aging woman. Being responsible for the happiness of her grandmother to whom, until now, she had taken all her own problems, was a new and disturbing prospect. The confidence with which she'd made her own home-coming plans suddenly seemed brazen and immature. Yet surely Maggie wouldn't have sent for her, wouldn't entrust her with everything she held dear in the world without believing she'd manage all right?

Standing on the steps of the sleeper as the train stopped in the morning, she saw Maggie almost at once, and with a small stab of surprise she realized that she had been unconsciously expecting some drastic change in her sister's appearance. But there were no visible signs of illness in the vibrant sunbrown face. The blue eyes were bright with humor—too bright?—and the flash of Maggie's smile as glad a radiance as ever. Her fair hair was cut off short, giving her a gamine young look that belied her 27 years, and the full skirt of her cotton dress swung forward gently across her lovely legs. Landon ran forward, arms outstretched. They clung, holding each other close.

"You nut!" Maggie whispered. "You didn't have to catch a train the minute you got my letter!" She reached out her hand for Eric. "Darling, doesn't she look terribly smart and Fifth Avenue-ish and successful?"

"That she does," agreed Eric, admiringly-eyed. He gave Landon a brotherly kiss on the cheek. "Hi," he said.

The road from the station veered off from the business section, by the lakefront.

Copyright, 1954, by Frances Sarah Moore. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

passed the factories and edged along the park. Beyond was Windermere college, where Eric was an English instructor. A few out-sized mansions faced the campus, former show places with sweeping circular driveways and porticos and turrets—verging on dowdiness now and mostly converted into apartments. About the only big old house that wasn't converted was the Irelands', on the other side of town.

A thwerve northward brought them to the lakefront. Through a fringe of poplars the water was bright blue and alive with mid-July's flotilla of canoes, outboard motors and little launches.

Landon suddenly remembered the swim suit she had bought for Maggie's birthday. Then Maggie's letter had come, and Maggie wouldn't be wearing a swim suit this summer.

An ache closed Landon's throat. She said to Maggie, "How long before—before you have to go to the sanatorium?"

Maggie kept her eyes straight ahead. "Tomorrow."

"Oh, no! So soon? And it's your birthday," Landon whispered. "It's not fair. Tears burned her eyelids, but she mustn't cry—not in front of Maggie."

They drew up at the house. Eric got out of the car and collected her bags. "I'll take these in, and then drive over to the church and pick up Gran and Merry-o."

On the way out to the kitchen, Maggie said, "It's nearly lunchtime. We'll carry trays out to the patio. Eric likes eating outside. We do it every fine day."

"I'd forgotten that the men in Windermere come home for lunch," Landon said. "What can I do to help?"

"We're having cold cuts and a big bowl of greens. You can shake up some French dressing if you like." Maggie took some things out of the refrigerator. "My letter must have been pretty upsetting, wasn't it?"

Landon nodded. She had stared at the words as if they were written in a foreign language. She had stared at them until she felt herself drifting into a sort of hypnosis, like that induced after mile upon mile of high-speed driving. It was Maggie's "Can you come?" that had swerved her back to reality.

Maggie said, "We thought of a housekeeper, or a boarding school for Merry-o—but we are buying this house, and Eric's insurance program is heavy, and—well, you know."

'Experts' Full Of Twaddle

--By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Who sews your buttons? Who darns your socks? Who sends your shirts to the laundry?

If a man does these things himself, presumably he is a real fine modern-minded husband and a great companion to his wife. But if he expects his wife to do them, he is presumably a brow-beating oaf who is secretly looking for a mother not a marital partner.

So some present-day sociologists and marriage counselors seem to hold. They're full of twaddle.

There has been a horrible spate of magazine articles lately on the "new freedom" of wives, the "new partnership" in marriage, the "new sharing of responsibility" between husbands and wives.

Much of this wide-eyed tripe is the sheerest drivel. It operates on the theory that (1) a home is hopelessly old-fashioned if the husband goes out and brings home the bacon, then rests contentedly in the living room while his wife cooks it, but (2) everything is palsy-walsy in a home in which papa opens a can of beans for dinner while mama cheerfully busies herself painting the ceiling.

I don't believe it and I'll bet 10 million American husbands (and their wives) agree with me.

The latest of these little up-to-the-minute matrimonial essays really has me riled. It found in a survey that many young U.S. wives were neglecting their husbands, but held sociologists thought this just dandy as conditions have changed, and a man no longer has the right to expect from his wife the personal attentions and services his father received from his mother.

The article expressed no disapproval over the fact that a poll of college girls taking a course in marriage and family life showed only half expected to darn their future husband's socks, sew on his buttons, see that his shirts kept cleaned and pressed.

To me this is saddening. Do these girls really want to marry a husband or merely marry a bachelor, who doesn't need them? I recall in a college course I attended the professor asked the girls the minimum income they would demand in a husband. One girl insisted it would have to be $100 a week. That was more than 20 years ago. She's unmarried.

Why should a girl in college balk at the idea of sewing buttons for her husband? Would it really make her feel more self-important, more like a partner, if, as they exchanged vows at the altar, he whispered, "Baby, it's going to be 50-50 in everything with us. How's about you sewing the buttons on my clothes—and I'll sew the buttons on yours?"

The idea that marriage is a sharing isn't exactly new; it's as old as marriage itself. But you can't figure out the sharing as you'd plan a work sheet in a factory. The adventure lies in finding out what and how you'll share. You don't start with an ultimatum or often end with one. Not in a real marriage.

But there is a real danger in the new idea that all household chores have to be decided exactly 50-50, so that nobody ever does more than his share; there is real danger in the new idea that any wife can improve her husband by neglecting him while she pursues her own interests outside the home.

Such a concept doesn't exalt or free womanhood. It degrades womanhood. No victory outside her home can ever repay an honest wife for a failure within it. Most women realize this instinctively.

A feminist who insists that her husband help with the cooking and sew on his own buttons purely as a matter of principle, or because she is too lazy, defeats herself on a picayune battlefield. She may gain a mouse, but if it's a man she's got, she may lose him, too. There are an amazing number of girls left who don't regard a kitchen as a penal institution or button sewing as a form of slavery.

As a matter of fact, anybody looking either for a 50-50 partner or a fulltime chum ought to form a business corporation or join a social club. Marriage is a mystic, longtime exploration. It should be entered into only by people looking for something else—men who yearn for a wife, women who yearn for a husband.

TREND TO POWER
ORGANIZED LABOR is stepping up its field force to bring white collar workers into the fold. This is a major goal which the labor leaders have never been able to approach. It will be interesting to see how much progress is made this time.
Labor leaders are also flirting with farmers in the hope of effecting a firm political merger. The ultimate aim, of course, is to make farmers dues-paying members of unions.

It is not clear whether union heads realize that the more powerful their organizations become, the more they invite stringent government controls. Already the huge industrial unions capable of stifling industry and commerce are threatened with being brought under anti-trust laws.

With organized labor coming under a single directional head, the temptation will be to put everyone into one vertical union. The unions, however, would be in better health for the long pull if they stuck to the original idea of the craft unions where workers in one plant unite and act for their own welfare in that plant.

Anything beyond that moves into the big power game, subject to being cut down to size by popular sentiment. America has always operated that way in the past, at any rate.

LAUGH NOW
PICTURE IN the daily journals of a man standing on a stove lid 10 feet off the ground with no visible means of support struck most persons as funny. But there is no doubt that the Navy's new "flying platform" is a serious and perhaps revolutionary contribution to aviation.

If the country is about to move in earnest into the fantasy world of flying saucers and airborne tiddleywinks, the populace might as well enjoy a laugh while it can. These things are always more amusing in anticipation than they turn out to be in fact.

And time is fleeting. The new gadget sounds so simple both in principle and operation that its wholesale absorption into daily life seems only a matter of moments. "I'd let my kids fly it," said the test pilot. A trained bear could run it said one observer.

Is this it? The toy to make all toys obsolete? Many a parent has a disturbing memory of such things as steel battleships, submarines and airplanes which began with that cute look of babyhood and outgrew it with the speed of lightning.

ADVICE TO WOMEN
TO A SYMPOSIUM on problems of older women Dr. Catharine MacFarlane of Pennsylvania Medical College brought some sage advice, likely to go unheeded.
Women in their middle years, said Dr. MacFarlane, should stay away from chocolate sundaes and from their husbands while taking vacations. Here is the nub of Dr. MacFarlane's difficulty: The woman has yet to be identified who felt overweight while eating an ice cream sundae or middle-aged in the company of a man.

'Experts Full Of Twaddle'

NEW YORK (AP) — Who sews your buttons? Who darns your socks? Who sends your shirts to the laundry?
If a man does these things himself, presumably he is a real fine modern-minded husband and a great companion to his wife. But if he expects his wife to do them, he is presumably a brow-beating oaf who is secretly looking for a mother not a marital partner.
So some present-day sociologists and marriage counselors seem to hold. They're full of twaddle.
There has been a horrible spate of magazine articles lately on the "new freedom" of wives, the "new partnership" in marriage, the "new sharing of responsibility" between husbands and wives.
Much of this wide-eyed tripe is the sheerest drivel. It operates on the theory that (1) a home is hopelessly old-fashioned if the husband goes out and brings home the bacon; then rests contentedly in the living room while his wife cooks it; but (2) everything is palsy-walsy in a home in which papa opens a can of beans for dinner while mama cheerfully busies herself painting the ceiling.
I don't believe it and I'll bet 10 million American husbands (and their wives) agree with me.
The latest of these little up-to-the-minute matrimonial essays really has me riled. It found in a survey that many young U.S. wives were neglecting their husbands, but held sociologists' though this just dandy as conditions have changed, and a man no longer has the right to expect from his wife the personal attentions and services his father received from his mother.
The article expressed no disapproval over the fact that a poll of college girls taking a course in marriage and family life showed only half expected to darn their future husband's socks, sew on his buttons, see that his shirts were laundered and his suits kept cleaned and pressed.
To me this is saddening. Do these girls really want to marry a husband or merely marry a bachelor, who doesn't need them? I recall in a college course I attended the professor asked the girls the minimum

When last February, the Nationalists on Formosa evacuated the Tachen Islands, with the assistance of the American Seventh Fleet, they assumed that they had an agreement, in writing, with the United States that because of such evacuation, Quemoy and Matsu would be defended by the United States. They believed that to be true up to Sunday, April 24, when Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson arrived on Formosa to tell them otherwise.
(In this article, I am trying to give the picture as I understand the Chinese on Formosa see it. I do not know, of my own knowledge, what the Tachen evacuation agreement was.)
As a matter of fact, the initial rejection of Chou En-lai's invitation to talk on a Saturday, which was nullified on the following Tuesday, was in conformity with the spirit, if not the letter, of such an agreement.
To the Nationalists, therefore, the change of attitude between Saturday and Tuesday is in the nature of a double cross—"walk the garden path," as the Chinese say it—and they are blaming it, as usual, on the British, by which they mean that the constant necessity for adjusting American to British policy, or, to put it differently, the readjustments of American and British policy give the British, who dislike Chiang Kai-shek, an opportunity to influence American views.
The Nationalists intend to stay put which is embarrassing to the United States, because the question then arises, will the United States blast the Nationalists off Quemoy and Matsu in the interest of Communist China. The alternative to that is to let the Nationalists do their own fighting, the Seventh Fleet watching the engagement. The Nationalists will, of course, fight with American equipment just as the Chinese Communists will fight with Russian equipment.
It will be something like the Civil War in Spain during which one side was supported by Soviet Russia and the other side by Nazi Germany. It might even be regarded in Asia as a prelude to the big fight.
Should the Nationalists be defeated and the Communists decide to push on to Formosa, the Seventh Fleet would become engaged automatically, unless the United States decided to violate its treaty of alliance with Nationalist China. Should such a violation occur, the Communists could readily take Formosa and Japan would be forced to reconsider her position vis-a-vis the United States. The Japan-Australia line would be in a state of collapse, and the United States would have to form a new defensive line, probably with Pearl Harbor as the core. The Southeast Asia would go pro-Communist China and anti-American because no country can accept the reliability of a treaty-breaker.
Nobody in Asia is quite sure as to what American policy is. Chiang Kai-shek has put his faith in Radford and Robertson, two excellent officials, who have been required to make proposals to him which he cannot and will not accept. Suicide is, for him, more acceptable, and may some day be the only way out.
Chiang has been dealing with countries for a long time. He understands that Radford and Robertson were sent on the mission to nullify the agreement concerning Quemoy and Matsu precisely because the Nationalists regard them as friends and trust them.

New Drugs That Treat Many Different Ills
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
NEW drugs and medical procedures are constantly being introduced these days.
Liquid Bardase, a new form of a drug used in treating peptic ulcer, ulcerative colitis, irritated colon, genito-urinary disturbances and dysmenorrhea, or female pain during menstruation, is one of them. Introduced a year ago in tablet form, it is thought that some people may now find it easier to take.
For Stomach Disorders
One or two spoonfuls of the drug three times a day is the usual dosage. Available only by prescription, the drug is said to decrease activity of the stomach and intestinal tract, pre-digest starches before they reach the small intestine, and partially block impulses from the high brain centers to the stomach.
New fortified antibiotics have been developed to provide vitamin requirements needed in stress conditions resulting from infections, wounds, burns or surgery. The Pfizer Laboratories recently announced the development of the combinations known as terramycin-SF and tetracycline-SF.
Each capsule contains a quarter of the usual daily antibiotic dose required for acute infection, plus a quarter of the daily special vitamin supplement needed under conditions of stress. The daily antibiotic dosage of four capsules insures the recommended daily therapeutic dose of vitamins necessary to build up the patient. The capsules are available only upon a doctor's prescription.
New uses are reported for the drug Serpassil. Serpassil is a pure crystalline alkaloid of rauwolfia root. Doctors report it produces a tranquilizing effect and sense of well-being in patients suffering anxiety, tension, nervousness and mild-to-severe neuroses.
It is being used in treating elderly psychotics to promote better adjustment to environmental and physical stress. It is available through your doctor.
QUESTION AND ANSWER
A.C.: Are bleeding hemorrhoids dangerous and how can one be sure that the blood is from piles?
Answer: Bleeding hemorrhoids require attention. An operation may be necessary. An examination by your doctor would be needed to determine from just what source the blood is coming.

SYNOPSIS
Landon McCrae is on her way from her job in New York to the town of Windermere in Canada, where her happily married sister, Maggie Scarfe is ill. A spot on Maggie's lungs will send her from some for extended treatment and in her absence, Landon will take over the household, comprising Maggie's husband, Eric, a teacher, her small daughter, Merry-o, and "Gran," Scotty White, bachelor and old beau of Landon, is delighted at the prospect of her return to Windermere.
CHAPTER THREE
MAGGIE'S house, to Landon, was now home.
But this was going to be altogether different from a gay holiday visit.
Landon lay awake considering the months ahead of her. In taking Maggie's place she would be answerable for the health and welfare of a six-year-old child, a lonely man and an aging woman. Being responsible for the happiness of her grandmother to whom, until now, she had taken all her own problems, was a new and disturbing prospect. The confidence with which she'd made her nasty homecoming plans suddenly seemed brazen and immature. Yet surely Maggie wouldn't have sent for her, wouldn't entrust her with everything she held dear in the world without believing she'd manage all right?
Standing on the steps of the sleeper as the train stopped in the morning, she saw Maggie almost at once, and with a small stab of surprise she realized that she had been unconsciously expecting some drastic change in her sister's appearance. But there were no visible signs of illness in the vibrant sunniness of her face. Her eyes were bright with humor—too bright?—and the flash of Maggie's smile as glad a radiance as ever. Her hair was cut off short, giving her a gamy young look that belied her 27 years, and the full skirt of her cotton dress swung forward gently across her lovely legs. Landon ran forward, arms outstretched. They clung, holding each other close.
"You nut!" Maggie whispered. "You didn't have to catch a train the minute you got my letter!" She reached out her hand for Eric. "Darling, doesn't she look terribly smart and Fifth Avenue-ish and successful?"
"That she does," agreed Eric, admiringly. He gave Landon a brotherly kiss on the cheek. "Hi," he said.
The road from the station veered off from the business section, by-passing the town, and led to the house.

passed the factories and edged along the park. Beyond was Windermere college, where Eric was an English instructor. A few outsize mansions faced the campus, former show places with sweeping circular driveways and porticos and turrets—verging on dowdiness now and mostly converted into apartments. About the only big old house that wasn't converted was the Irelands', on the other side of town.
A swerve northward brought them to the lakefront. Through a fringe of poplars the water was bright blue and alive with mid-July's flotilla of canoes, outboard motors and little launches.
Landon suddenly remembered the swim suit she had bought for Maggie's birthday. Then Maggie's letter had come, and Maggie wouldn't be wearing a swim suit this summer.
An ache closed Landon's throat. She said to Maggie, "How long before—before you have to go to the sanatorium?"
Maggie kept her eyes straight ahead. "Tomorrow."
"Oh, no! So soon? And it's your birthday," Landon whispered. "It's not fair. Tears burned her eyelids, but she mustn't cry—not in front of Maggie."
They drew up at the house. Eric got out of the car and collected her bags. "I'll take these in, and then drive over to the church and pick up Gram and Merry-o."
On the way out to the kitchen, Maggie said, "It's nearly lunchtime. We'll carry trays out to the patio. Eric likes eating outside. We do it every line day."
"I'd forgotten that the men in Windermere come home for lunch," Landon said. "What can I do to help?"
"We're having cold cuts and a big bowl of greens. You can shake up some French dressing if you like," Maggie took some things out of the refrigerator. "My letter must have been pretty upsetting, wasn't it?"
Landon nodded. She had stared at the words as if they were written in a foreign language. She had stared at them until she felt herself drifting into a sort of hypnosis, like that induced after mile upon mile of high-speed driving. It was Maggie's "Can you come?" that had swerved her back to reality.
Maggie said, "We thought of a housekeeper, or a boarding school for Merry-o—but we are buying this house, and Eric's insurance program is heavy, and—well, you know."

know the sort of salaries the colleges pay their young instructors! Gram, bless her, offered to pitch in and help. But she has already done enough for us—modernizing the house, helping us with the down payment. Merry-o would run her ragged. . . I waited days before I sent you an S.O.S. It didn't seem fair to take advantage of you just because we have always been rather special to each other."
Landon fought against a lump, stifling in her throat. "Do you think—once I knew—that anything could have kept me away?"
"I'm so glad Eric will have you, Landon! He'll need you. He looks so big and strong—but when it comes to standing up under loneliness, I'm stronger. I really am. All women are, or they'd never be able to bear being alone all the times their men were away at war or at sea. . . Don't let him worry too much about me, will you?"
"I'll try," Landon said doubtfully.
"Merry-o, now. . . Oh, Landon, is it fair to push all my responsibilities on you like this?"
"Don't be goofy."
"Merry-o is tough," Maggie said. "She hasn't been a baby since she outgrew her snugly-bunny suits. She is remarkably healthy. She is even quite intelligent. Only don't let her get the upper hand of you! She'd delight in bullying you!"
Thinking now adept Maggie was at reducing the complex amusingly to the simple, Landon said ruefully, "You make it sound so easy!" But watching Maggie hack away at the tomatoes, she thought: She has to make light of it, or go to pieces.
"Children are funny," Maggie said. "You think they don't understand, and then suddenly you discover that they understand everything."
This time, though, Maggie's smile failed. Her mouth just couldn't make it. Her face crumpled and broke up. "Oh, Landon," she whispered. She dropped to the floor, plunged her face into Landon's lap. And suddenly she was crying with a strange abandonment, wildly.
"Maggie. . . Maggie."
Landon felt as if she were being slowly torn apart. She stroked back the springy short hair, shocked at Maggie's body being so thin under the full dirndl and puff sleeves. "I'll do everything I can," she whispered. "I promise."

Final Monday Club Session Features Convention Report

Mrs. Collis Young Talks On Meetings

Mrs. Lawrence J. Johnson presided over the final meeting of the club year for Monday Club, held in Memorial Hall. Reports were given on the year's work by Miss Alice Ada May, Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. A. D. Blackburn, Mrs. Edwin Jury, Mrs. Forest Croman, Mrs. Richard Robinson and Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Richard Jacek was welcomed into the club as a new member.

Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer presented Mrs. Ray Davis, who spoke on "Conventions, Past and Present". Mrs. Davis commended the North District for the manner in which its members conducted a convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs recently in Columbus.

She spoke on the value of a convention to the club women who attended. She also announced that the Southeast District, of which Circleville is a part, will host a 1956 convention.

Mrs. Collis Young, Mrs. George Barnes and Mrs. G. H. Adkins were delegates to the convention in Columbus. Mrs. Young served as spokesman for the group, giving a report of the sessions. She stated that a business meeting highlighted to the opening day's sessions. Resolutions made during this meeting included:

That the members of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs familiarize themselves with local and state ordinances and encourage public opinion upon the enforcement of existing comic book ordinances.

That the federation recommend to the Assembly that it review the Ohio Uniform Drug Act.

That the federation is opposed to billboards adjacent to all turnpikes in Ohio.

Since existing facilities for mental health and correction fall short of the need in Ohio, the federation will continue to support a program for meeting these needs.

That the state make it mandatory that patients with communicable tuberculosis be isolated.

That the federation endorse a nationwide system of competitive scholarship and improve training facilities to encourage youth to enter Foreign service; that an interrogation be made in the State Department and Foreign Service; that the public re-invest its confidence in the State Department and Foreign Service, study its problems and recognize its services rendered.

That rather than to give increased benefits to unemployment compensation, a more sound system of steady and regular work be established for the public.

That the federation go on record as heartily recommending the continuation of the priority of tax funds for public libraries.

A Pan-American student from Columbia, South America, who is a student in Home Economics at Ohio State University, addressed the group. She stated that she plans to return to her country to teach at the end of the school year, and she hopes to be able to give her people a better understanding of Americans.

The speaker listed the chief needs of her country as: food, money and freedom. She presented her sister, who also is studying in America.

During the session, Dr. Harry Ridenour spoke on Folk Ballads and Songs of Ohio. He explained that folk lore and songs have never been put to music or printed, but have been handed down from generation to generation. He listed a ballad as a folk song which tells a story.

Final Monday Club Session Features Convention Report

Mrs. Collis Young Talks On Meetings

Mrs. Lawrence J. Johnson presided over the final meeting of the club year for Monday Club, held in Memorial Hall. Reports were given on the year's work by Miss Alice Ada May, Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. A. D. Blackburn, Mrs. Edwin Jury, Mrs. Forest Croman, Mrs. Richard Robinson and Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Richard Jacek was welcomed into the club as a new member.

Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer presented Mrs. Ray Davis, who spoke on "Conventions, Past and Present". Mrs. Davis commended the North District for the manner in which its members conducted a convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs recently in Columbus.

She spoke on the value of a convention to the club women who attended. She also announced that the Southeast District, of which Circleville is a part, will host a 1956 convention.

Mrs. Collis Young, Mrs. George Barnes and Mrs. G. H. Adkins were delegates to the convention in Columbus. Mrs. Young served as spokesman for the group, giving a report of the sessions. She stated that a business meeting highlighted the opening day's sessions. Resolutions made during this meeting included:

That the members of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs familiarize themselves with local and state ordinances and encourage public opinion upon the enforcement of existing comic book ordinances.

That the federation recommend to the Assembly that it review the Ohio Uniform Drug Act.

That the federation is opposed to billboards adjacent to all turnpikes in Ohio.

Since existing facilities for mental health and correction fall short of the need in Ohio, the federation will continue to support a program for meeting these needs.

That the state make it mandatory that patients with communicable tuberculosis be isolated.

That the federation endorse a nationwide system of competitive scholarship and improve training facilities to encourage youth to enter Foreign service; that an interrogation be made in the State Department and Foreign Service; that the public re-invest its confidence in the State Department and Foreign Service, study its problems and recognize its services rendered.

That rather than to give increased benefits to unemployment compensation, a more sound system of steady and regular work be established for the public.

That the federation go on record as heartily recommending the continuation of the priority of tax funds for public libraries.

A Pan-American student from Columbia, South America, who is a student in Home Economics at Ohio State University, addressed the group. She stated that she plans to return to her country to teach at the end of the school year, and she hopes to be able to give her people a better understanding of Americans.

The speaker listed the chief needs of her country as: food, money and freedom. She presented her sister, who also is studying in America.

During the session, Dr. Harry Ridenaur spoke on Folk Ballads and Songs of Ohio. He explained that folk lore and songs have never been put to music or printed, but have been handed down from generation to generation. He listed a ballad as a folk song which tells a story.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

We're still talking about our old-time Country Store. Now the men-folks never were without an excuse to go to the store-if they hadn't a real one, they were pretty good in making one up.

Of course, before rural delivery, there was always the necessity of going to the store for the mail, which meant several trips a week and, too, the storekeeper was always in demand, for besides being the postmaster, he was quite often the township or town clerk, or the justice of the peace, with authority to sit in judgment, write contracts or perform marriage ceremonies, they say some of them were even pretty good horse doctors.

One wall of the store usually served as a community bulletin board, where could be found notices of church societies, turkey shoots, elections, farm auctions and warnings about horse thieves, bank robbers and escaped convicts.

To have a reserved seat around the chunk stove was a distinct honor. Remember how the sand in the box around the stove served another purpose than being a spark arrester?

Of course, some of the sharp-shooting veterans insisted on smaller targets, so they were advanced to individual JT or Star boxes, filled with sand or sawdust.

NOW SOME of the swankier "emporiums" were completely fitted with the polished brass accessories, which not only added to the glamour of the setting but had the practical quality of registering a hit or near-miss by the distinctive tone register. Most all of the women-folks blamed this section of the store as the source of the floating odor of tobacco, mixed with a suspicion of corn liquor or maybe Hood's Sarsaparilla, a potent tonic and body-builder, about 16 1/2 per cent test.

Peruna, too, was a good seller and had many powerful testimonials from Congressmen, Senators, Governors and Preachers. Even some of the Doctors had a good word for it.

Here gathered the serious-minded discussers of the news, the men gossips, the community wits with their thrice-told jokes and the hunters and fishermen, with their tall tales. They say more game has been killed and big fish snagged around these old stores than then populated the fields and streams.

The days which the drummers made the store were red-letter days for the country store regulars. By hook or crook, they were on hand to hear about what was going on in the cities and the outside world—what was the condition of the crops, here and there—what chance Jim Jeffries had to hold his heavy-weight title, and of course the newest jokes gathered in their travels, some pretty corny and many not what you would call parlor stories.

Do you remember some of these old-time drummers? Remember Thad McLean and the free trips his company gave to Cedar Point or to Niagara Falls? Before starting for home, there was business our men-folks had to transact—else there would be no proof for the need of the trip to the store. Certain necessities like pipe tobacco or maybe the store's special of 9 good cigars for $25 cents, or maybe a plug or two of JT or Star or Piper Heidsieck or just plain Black Jack.

Remember those guillotine-like tobacco cutters? "What do you want—a five-cent or ten-cent plug?" Haven't you heard this from behind the counter?

OF COURSE the excuse for buying sweets was generally that it was for the kids at home, but we remember some pretty big "kids" who were interested. If the egg money stretched that far, there should be some peanuts from the coal-oil roaster, or some peppermint sticks; horehound; rock-candy—clear or pink on cotton threads; kisses, French or otherwise; bellyburners—a penny apiece; lemon drops—the hard kind of sucking; chocolate or maple candy cigars; mottos; jaw-breakers; cinnamon drops; lickerish babies, shoe-strings or just plain lickerish root.

Then of course there had to be some chewing gum—either Yucatan, Red Beauty, Mint Julep, Red Star or the old favorite, Black Jack. Remember the Saturday nights when the grocery bills were paid off and the storekeeper gave you a great big sack of candy—all kinds? Except on very special occasions, like Christmas or Easter, that's about the only store candy some youngsters ever got.

Being shamed into doing it, Dad sometimes put out some money necessary wearing apparel. The old "longies" were too comfortable to give up without an argument, even if the patches were beginning to lap—the big thing was that the "scratch" was about out of them.

Nowadays the magazines are full of athletic-looking specimens of manhood, cavorting around in brief shorts—the freedom of movement, personified. Grand-pop would not have been considered such an example of grace. The early styles were two-piece jobs—the shirts had long sleeves and a long row of buttons down the front, which made dressing in the morning pretty much of a chore.

Now the lower part—the drawers—had cords around the waist and at each ankle, serving as drawstrings. In later years, the constricted areas were shifted, by the introduction from Ireland of the balbrigan type of garment.

These fitted like a glove—at first—but after a few days of wear, especially if there was any stooping, sitting or kneeling in it, the general appearance, with humps and bumps, could be likened to the Ice-Age Mammoth or the Muskoxe or, to be more modern-like that of the Bathless One in the Sunday Funny—"Abbie an' Slat."

BUYING STORE shoes wasn't too much of a problem, for it was a long while before there was anything to be had but the long-wearing brogan, and it wasn't until after about 1880 that there were shoes made for the right or the left foot. Neither did you have to buy the same size for both feet—you could take home the sizes you picked out of the bin, which felt the best on each foot.

Besides the customary everyday jeans to keep peace in the family—most everyone had to have a dress-up suit. They were generally worsteds or serges—the kind which gave you away with the shine—but, barring accidents, were ageless. The styles never changed so about the only way you could tell whether you had a new Sunday suit, was by the shade of greenishness it had reached, in weathering.

The accepted style was tight-legged pants held up by quite fancy galluses—remember those with the system of pulleys and ropes in the back, which responded to every little movement? The coats were box-backed and buttoned in front, clear up to the chin. Black velvet lapels were quite the thing, but were far from being practical.

Now for hats, you could choose the style you liked best from two patterns—the soft broad-rimmed Kentucky Colonel type or the non-conforming derby or "cady." Can't you remember, from your old-time pictures, what real "dudes" the men-folks were those days?

Of course, on just a casual glance, you would say that all looked alike, but on closer examination there were certain characteristics of adornment which were definitely individualistic. Some were smooth-shaven, some had cropped mustaches or "cooky-dusters", others the "handle-bar" type, waxed and otherwise. Many had chin whiskers—some the bunny-tail type below the lower lip, others the stylish Van Dykes—but most were just the "hirsute" or brush type, which required combing out periodically, for the removal of tangles, knots and quite often strange creatures.

Practically everyone had sideburns and many had beards all over. To some of us, all of this is a memory, and to others, younger, a mere tradition.

YES, THERE are still a few of these old-time stores—hardly changed in appearance, but with wares undreamed of when they were founded. There are still a few even housing the post-office of the community; but no longer can one be found which might be called the social and business center of the region. That day's gone.

You know that the fascination of this Americana is being capitalized and many a "Country Store" is springing up in regions catering to tourists—and some of the "store-keepers" are getting rich?

Scientific Facts Cited On Polio Vaccine Worries

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A few scientific facts can be helpful guideposts to parents worried about the polio vaccine.

There are two main worries:

1. Is any of the vaccine CAUSING polio?
2. Is it FAILING to prevent polio?

The scientific facts give no reason to jump to conclusions that either worry is justified. Here's why:

The vaccine is made of killed virus. Dead virus cannot cause polio. Vaccine is first tested for this safety.

It is possible that some lots of vaccine might contain living virus, and be missed in the tests. With the precautions used in making vaccine, this is very unlikely.

But the possibility is the reason why vaccine made by the Cutter Laboratories was withdrawn, for rechecking, after some children vaccinated with it developed polio. The answer from the rechecks and various tests should be forthcoming soon.

Polio also developed in a Columbus, Ga., child given one shot of vaccine prepared by Eli Lilly Co. There is a far better reason than faulty vaccine why some children developed polio after getting only one shot of vaccine. It is that they got the shot too late.

If you've been out in the sun for two hours on your first day of sunning, and begin to turn pink, it is already too late for suntan oil to prevent development of the burn you've already received.

Similarly, it takes time for a vaccine to get into action, and create protective antibodies in a child's bloodstream.

This may be a matter of a few weeks time. If the polio virus already had invaded the child, the vaccine couldn't throw up a defensive fence soon enough.

It is significant to health officers that many if not all cases of polio occurred within five to seven days after the first shot of vaccine. This could mean it didn't have time to become effective.

There is no reason to think that the shot of vaccine would speed up development of polio in a child already exposed to polio virus.

Some health officers also point out that a majority of the cases of polio after one shot of vaccine occurred in southern California, where the polio season usually begins earlier than in Northern states. Again this indicates the vaccine didn't have time to work. There was no evidence in the exhaustive report of Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., University of Michigan, that the vaccine caused polio. His report gave the vaccine an astonishing record of safety from reactions of any kind. Indeed, there were more reactions (fever, headache, etc.) among children getting the completely harmless, useless dummy shots.

By Mac Noggle

We're still talking about our old-time Country Store. Now the men-folks never were without an excuse to go to the store-if they hadn't a real one, they were pretty good in making one up.

Of course, before rural delivery, there was always the necessity of going to the store for the mail, which meant several trips a week and, too, the storekeeper was always in demand, for besides being the postmaster, he was quite often the township or town clerk, or the justice of the peace, with authority to sit in judgment, write contracts or perform marriage ceremonies; they say some of them were even pretty good horse doctors.

One wall of the store usually served as a community bulletin board, where could be found notices of church sociables, turkey shoots, elections, farm auctions and warnings about horse thieves, bank robbers and escaped convicts.

To have a reserved seat around the chunk stove was a distinct honor. Remember how the sand in the box around the stove served another purpose than being a spark arrester?

Of course, some of the sharp-shooting veterans insisted on smaller targets, so they were advanced to individual JT or Star boxes, filled with sand or sawdust.

NOW SOME of the swankier "emporiums" were completely fitted with the polished brass accessories, which not only added to the glamour of the setting but had the practical quality of registering a hit or near-miss by the distinctive tone register. Most all of the women-folks blamed this section of the store as the source of the floating odor of tobacco, mixed with a suspicion of corn liquor or maybe Hood's Sarsaparilla, a potent tonic and body-builder, about 16 1-2 per cent test.

Peruna, too, was a good seller and had many powerful testimonials from Congressmen, Senators, Governors and Preachers. Even some of the Doctors had a good word for it.

Here gathered the serious-minded discussers of the news, the men gossips, the community wits with their thrice-told jokes and the hunters and fishermen, with their tall tales. They say more game has been killed and big fish snagged around these old stores than then populated the fields and streams.

The days which the drummers made the store were red-letter days for the country store regulars. By hook or crook, they were on hand to hear about what was going on in the cities and the outside world—what was the condition of the crops, here and there—what chance Jim Jeffries had to hold his heavyweight title, and of course the newest jokes gathered in their travels, some pretty corny and many not what you would call parlor stories.

Do you remember some of these old-time drummers? Remember Thad McLean and the free trips his company gave to Cedar Point or to Niagara Falls? Before starting for home, there was business our men-folks had to transact—else there would be no proof for the need of the trip to the store. Certain necessities like pipe tobacco or maybe the store's special of 9 good cigars for $25 cents, or maybe a plug or two of JT or Star or Piper Heidsieck or just plain Black Jack.

Remember those guillotine-like tobacco cutters? "What do you want—a five-cent or ten-cent plug?" Haven't you heard this from behind the counter?

OF COURSE the excuse for buying sweets was generally that it was for the kids at home, but we remember some pretty big "kids" who were interested. If the egg money stretched that far, there should be some peanuts from the coal-oil roaster, or some peppermint sticks; horehound; rock-candy-clear or pink on cotton threads; kisses, French or otherwise; bellyburners-a penny apiece; lemon drops-the hard kind of sucking; chocolate or maple candy cigars; mottos; jaw-breakers; cinnamon drops; lickerish babies, shoe-strings or just plain lickerish root.

Then of course there had to be some chewing gum—either Yucatan, Red Beauty, Mint Julep, Red Star or the old favorite, Black Jack. Remember the Saturday nights when the grocery bills were paid off and the storekeeper gave you a great big sack of candy-all kinds? Except on very special occasions, like Christmas or Easter, that's about the only store candy some youngsters ever got.

Being shamed into doing it, Dad sometimes put out some money necessary wearing apparel. The old "longies" were too comfortable to give up without an argument, even if the patches were beginning to lap the big thing was that the "scratch" was about out of them.

Nowdays the magazines are full of athletic-looking specimens of manhood, cavorting around in brief shorts-the freedom of movement, personified. Grand-pop would not have been considered such an example of grace. The early styles were two-piece jobs—the shirts had long sleeves and a long row of buttons down the front, which made dressing in the morning pretty much of a chore.

Now the lower part-the drawers-had cords around the waist and at each ankle, serving as drawstrings. In later years, the constricted areas were shifted, by the introduction from Ireland of the balbriggan type of garment.

SAVE TIME, MONEY
ON KITCHEN FLOORS
Why wear yourself out scrubbing your kitchen floor, or spend money constantly to wax it?
You don't have to do either one when you use Glaxo, the wonderful floor coating with the built-in seal against dirt. One application keeps your linoleum or asphalt tile shiny for months.
Glaxo dries in an hour to a water-clear, non-slip finish that defies dirt, grease and hard wear.
Get up off your hands and knees,
throw away the floor wax — use
Glaxo!

ON KITCHEN FLOORS

Why wear yourself out scrubbing your kitchen floor, or spend money constantly to wax it?

You don't have to do either one when you use Glaxo, the wonderful floor coating with the built-in seal against dirt. One application keeps your linoleum or asphalt tile shiny for months.

Glaxo dries in an hour to a water-clear, non-slip finish that defies dirt, grease and hard wear. Get up off your hands and knees, throw away the floor wax — use Glaxo!

Bosox Record Shows Absence Of Williams

Team In 6th Place, Losing 10 Of Last 12 League Contests

The Associated Press

If Ted Williams was casting base hits around the American League instead of reeling in the big ones off the Florida keys these days, Boston's Red Sox might be a lot better off. He's having a good time, but he's in sixth place in the American League.

After a fast start, when they were 6-1 and in first place by April 20, the Red Sox now have trailed off to lose 10 of their last 12, including five in a row.

They've been batting a puny .180 through the slump, getting shut out four times en route.

Jackie Jensen provided what little power the Red Sox mustered yesterday while losing their fifth straight. He homered with none on while the Red Sox ran afoul of Cleveland's Early Wynn. The Indians won 4-2, retaining first place.

Wynn, a 23-game winner last season, grabbed his first victory of the season. Recovered from an attack of bronchial pneumonia, he scattered six hits. Dave Pope hit a three-run homer in the first.

Detroit kept the pace, a half game back of the Indians, by whipping the New York Yankees 7-1. The Yanks, who were tied for second with the Tigers and Chicago White Sox at the day's start, fell off to fourth. The White Sox, idle, leveled off at third.

Washington blasted Kansas City 12-1 in the only other AL game.

In the National, Brooklyn kept up its fantastic pace, widening its lead to six games as Carl Furillo rambled his eighth home run into the left field stands to beat Milwaukee's Braves 2-0 in 12 innings.

That pushed the Braves into fourth with Chicago's Cubs leaping into

Jim Calihan Hurls Two-Hitter As CHS Downs Greenfield 6-0

Jim Calihan did almost a complete about face as he allowed Greenfield only two singles in second on a 2-1 victory at Philadelphia after wrapping up a 4-2 decision by completing a suspended Sunday game.

Pittsburgh's Bob Purkey had no trouble with St. Louis, beating the Cardinals 5-1 in the only other NL game.

The first-place battle in the American Association was narrowed slightly as the top three won last night while fourth place Toledo was blanked, 4-0, by St. Paul.

League-leading Minneapolis broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth when Gill Harris singled in an unearned run and Rance Pless tripled, sending the Millers off to win, 6-3, over Charleston.

Wally Lammner homered in the seventh for second place Omaha and gave the Cardinals the edge they needed to down Indianapolis, 3-2.

A 12th-inning single with the bases loaded netted third-ranking Louisville a 3-2 decision and its seventh triumph over cellar-dwelling Denver in eight meetings.

The same teams met tonight. Veteran Ken Lehman of the Montreal Royals is one of the main reasons for rookie Manager Grey Mullen's hopes for an International League pennant.

Lehman, who has had three chances with the parent Brooklyn Dodgers, gained his fourth victory without a defeat yesterday as the Royals nipped the Havana Sugar Kings, 5-4, and moved into second place.

In games last night, the Toronto Maple Leafs remained on top of the league by defeating the Columbus Jets, 3-1. The Toronto victory kept the Leafs one-half game ahead of the Royals.

The Richmond Virginians broke a five-game losing streak by blanking the Buffalo Bisons, 2-0, and the Rochester Red Wings, behind the effective pitching of Ellis (Cot) Deal and Mel Wright, beat the Syracuse Chiefs, 3-1.

pitching Circleville High School to a 6-0 victory Monday.

Last week, Greenfield scored 17 runs off CHS and battered Calihan's mound offerings. The loss was the first South Central Ohio League defeat for Greenfield in four starts.

Jack Clark, of CHS, supplied the fielding gem of the afternoon. He speared what looked like a hit to deep right and threw to first for a fifth inning double play.

CHS faces Columbus St. Charles at Ted Lewis Park Tuesday at 4 p. m. in a Central District Class A affair. Freshman Mike Hosler, whose bat has been sizzling, will try his luck at pitching in that contest.

Akins Scores Surprise KO Over Delaney

NEW YORK (AP) — Virgil Akins was hoping today that his surprising eighth-round knockout of hitherto iron-chinned Ronnie DeLaney wouldn't scare off any other high-ranking opponents.

The 25-year-old St. Louis veteran, a 4-1 underdog, flattened the sixth-ranking middleweight contender from Akron with a picture left hook and right to the jaw in 2:41 of the eighth round of their television 10-rounder here last night.

Akins, a onetime lightweight contender now fighting in the welterweight class, has had plenty of trouble in the past getting leading fighters to meet him. Knocking out the formidable DeLaney isn't going to make it any easier. It was Akins' fourth straight victory and his third kayo in a row.

It was the first time Ronnie has been stopped in 54 scraps and it was only the second defeat of his career.

Outweighed 149½ to 146½, Akins held a slight lead when he nailed the Ohio southpaw in the eighth.

In another surprise, Tony Puleo, a 22-year-old Brooklyn rookie making his debut as a main event, held heavily favored Carmelo Costa to a 10-round draw in a televised scrap in Brooklyn.

Costa, the sixth-ranking featherweight contender, was a 4-1 choice. He weighed 132½, Puleo 134½.

Moore Hoping For Title Shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore may well have earned a shot at Rocky Marciano and his world heavyweight title.

Ageless Archie last night met and whipped the No. 1 contender, Nino Valdes of Cuba, in a 15-round fight that was action-packed from start to finish.

Sitting at ringside was Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, who said the 38-year-old Moore deserved a chance to meet Marciano.

Gibson said the match would be probably scheduled for September in New York.

Ashville Wins Baseball Title; Beats Jackson

Ashville's Broncos retained the Pickaway County baseball championship by drubbing Jackson 16 to 2 at Ashville Monday afternoon.

Jerry Riegel spun a six-hitter for the winners. His only nemesis was Longberry, Jackson's first sacker, who got a triple and two singles.

Galloway, Hatfield and Cline got the other hits, all singles, for Jackson. Ashville's Larry Fullen got five singles in five trips to the plate.

Ashville and Jackson will represent the county in the Central District Class B tourney.

Budge Decries Ability Of Top Netters

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Budge said today Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, America's top tennis acers, have "basically unsound" games and he considers Dick Savitt the best of the world's amateurs.

"Of course, Savitt now is in semi-retirement in Texas, playing mostly on weekends," added the red-haired court master of the '30s, "but for sheer ability and equipment I think he towers above the present crop."

Of Seixas, the current U. S. champion, Budge said:

"His game is terribly unsound. If he weren't such a good athlete, if he weren't so quick and if he didn't fight so hard he would be a very mediocre player."

Of Trabert, the thick-shouldered Cincinnati athlete who is currently on a nine-tournament winning streak, Don said:

"All the great champions you can name had at least three features of their game which stood out, features you would like to emulate. There isn't a single phase of Tony's game anybody would want to copy."

"I feel Savitt could be unquestionably the world's standout amateur if he chose. He has an excellent service. His ground stroke, both backhand and forehand, have great power and control."

Doby, Rosen Due To Miss Yankee Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Indians, weak at the plate but strong on the mound, will be without two top sluggers tonight when they play the New York Yankees for the first time this year.

Larry Doby and Al Rosen are lame with pulled muscles.

As the Tribe attempts to protect its half-game league lead, Dave Pope will take over in centerfield for Doby and Hank Majeski will be at third for Rosen.

The Indians have scored only 13 runs while winning their last four games and Pope provided three of those with a homer yesterday when the Indians beat Boston, 4-2.

Early Wynn, continuing a fine pace set by three previous pitchers, held the Red Sox to two runs on six hits. Just over an attack of bronchial pneumonia, he remarked that "I really was dragging the last few innings."

The three earlier pitchers, Bob

Lemon, Bob Feller and Herb Score, had limited Baltimore and Boston to a total of three runs. Lemon gave up two to Baltimore Saturday, Feller held Boston scoreless Sunday in the first game of a double header and Score gave up one run in the second game.

Mike Garcia, who has a 1-3 record, pitches the first game against

9 Horses Set For Derby Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The traditional Kentucky Derby fever

the Yankees. His opponent will be Ed Lopat, winless so far.

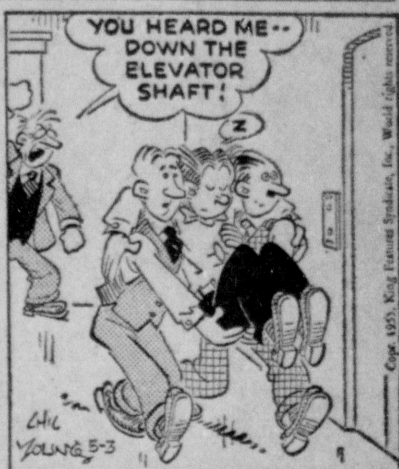

took a firm grip on this horse-loving Ohio River city today as nine 3-year-old thoroughbreds prepared to match strides in the Derby Trial.

Hours before the nine tangled in the mile of the $10,000 added trial, the "big" horse of this, the richest of all derbies, was primed for a workout.

The reference to the "big" horse means only one—Nashua, pride of William Woodward Jr.'s Belair stud. Trained by the three-time derby winner, 80-year-old Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, Nashua will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, king of the derby jockeys.
